'In Accord On Basic Elements'

Statement Issued
By JFK, Adenauer

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer announced today "they are in accord on the basic elements which will permit" a negotiated settlement of the Berlin crisis "if there is reasonableness on the part of the Soviet Union."

In a communique ending three days of "frank and cordial" talks here, the U.S. chief executive and the 85-year-old West German leader also declared they had "agreed on the measures" which should be taken toward the goal of a peaceful resolution of the Berlin dispute "in a manner consistent with the legitimate interests of all parties concerned."

"At the same time," the communique said, "they also agreed on the necessity for maintaining, and increasing the ability of the NATO alliance to cope with any military developments."

The decisions reached in the series of talks at the White House were not spelled out in the concluding announcement. The announcement said discussions on the development of Allied policy will be continued in talks involving Adenauer, Prime Minister Macmillan and President de Gaulle later this month.

FURTHER MEETINGS

The talks will be "concluded," the statement added, in foreign minister's discussions and a NATO council meeting at Paris in mid-December.

At the outset of their report on their Berlin conversations the statement made its sharpest reference to the Soviet Union, saying that Russia had "created an international crisis" over Berlin.

It then added: "The president and the chancellor reaffirmed their clear determination to ensure the continuance of a free and vigorous life for the population of Berlin."

On the surface, at least, this declaration did not distinguish between West Berlin and Communist East Berlin which has been sealed off from the Western sector by a Communist wall.

REASSURE AIM

Kennedy and Adenauer also reassured the aim of reunifying Germany, saying:

"The president and the chancellor reaffirmed the ultimate goal of their governments of achieving 'by peaceful means' the reunification of Germany on the basis of self-determination. They were also in agreement that this objective could be realized without prejudice to the legitimate interest of the Soviet Union and Germany's neighbors."

THE OLD ARMY GAME GOES ON

LONDON (UPI) — The Evening Standard said in an editorial column today the Canadian Army has issued these orders telling a soldier what to do if he sees a nuclear bomb explode:

"The soldier will inform his immediate superior and tell him what has occurred. If the bomb goes off in duty hours a certain number will be called. If it is during off-duty hours an alternate number will be called."

"The soldier then will fill out the appropriate report form and dispatch it forthwith to headquarters."

(In Ottawa, an Army spokesman said such orders would have originated with Canada's NATO brigade in West Germany. He said he could not confirm their accuracy.)

BLAST SHATTERS HALL IN NELSON VICINITY

NELSON (CP) — A $1,600 public hall and three power poles were shattered early today in explosions near this British Columbia Kootenay city.

The incidents marked the first violence in this mountain area since some 44 members of the Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect were arrested in a recent drive and charged with bomb making and other acts of violence.

One member of the sect has already been sentenced to 10 years for making an illegal explosive device.

Two of the poles shattered today were at Genelle, a railway community, north of Trail. The other was at Slocan Park, near the wrecked hall.

Police said the hall was "non Doukhobor." Other details of the pre-dawn detonations were not immediately available.

Wen-Gren Profit Of $2.9 Million

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Province says the interests of Swedish financier Axel Wenner-Gren have achieved a profit of $2,900,000 on an investment of $2,700,000 on proposed development in British Columbia's Rocky Mountain trench area.

It says the profit breaks down to $900,000 from the provincial government and $2,000,000 from the sale of shares of the Peace River Power Development Company which Wenner-Gren interests formed to build a multi-million dollar hydro-electric development on the Peace River.

The $900,000 came to light Tuesday when Mr. Justice R. A. Wootton approved in supreme court a resolution passed by an extraordinary meeting of Peace Power shareholders last week.

The resolution recommended distribution on the basis of 30 cents a share of $6,472,000. The money is part of $7,530,000 the provincial government is to pay Peace Power after expropriating its plans and surveys for the hydro project.

TO FIGHT TAKEOVER?

The Sun says the remaining money is to be used to fight the terms of the government's expropriation. The government took over the plans and surveys and expropriated the company.

Fly Poison Man's Poison?

ROME (AP) — The Food and Agriculture Organization today called for an international conference on a Canadian proposal to study whether man may be poisoning himself to death in his attempt to kill insects.

The conference of international experts will be held next year. It will seek an answer to the increasingly alarming problem: How much insecticide may be used on agricultural products without endangering man's own health?

Canadian delegate W. Hurlig said obviously pesticides must be used to prevent insects from destroying the plants man must have for food, but he said controls were essential to keep the resultant poisoning within health limits. He warned that the problem would be difficult.

The Canadian proposal was supported strongly by delegates from New Zealand, Burma, Israel, Pakistan, Australia, the United Kingdom, Italy, the United States, Cyprus, France, Tunisia, Thailand, India, the Philippines and The Netherlands.

PLEAD GUILTY TO SPYING

Hired by U.S., Germans Tell Russian Court

(Times News Services)

MOSCOW — Two handsome young Germans pleaded guilty today to spying for the United States. But both insisted they were guilty only in the strict sense of the indictment and one of them said he never took the alleged espionage seriously.

The Germans, Walter Naumann, 27, and Peter Sonntag, 22, entered their pleas at the beginning of Moscow's first public spy trial since that of American U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers. They went before two major generals and a colonel of the military division of the supreme court.

After their arrest the Russians accused the Germans, among other things, of trying to locate Soviet rocket bases. But the lengthy indictment only claimed they tried to leave the Soviet Union with 15 rolls of film that showed Soviet radar and power stations.

Defended by U-2 Pilot's Lawyer

"Why did you talk about it, despite the fact that you signed a statement pledging secrecy?" asked his defence counsel, Mikhail Ilich Grinyov, the same lawyer who defended Powers, now serving a 10-year term for his U-2 flight over the Soviet Union May 1, 1960.

Norway's Lange Rebuffs Russians

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Norwegian Foreign Minister Halvard Lange told Soviet leaders today that he "could not accept" their views about West Germany.

Lange defended Norway's participation in NATO and said Norway's experience had shown that a small country could not stand alone.

Lange was speaking without notes at the end of a long lunch in the Norwegian Embassy immediately after First Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan accused Norway of "sitting and watching" instead of doing something about a German peace treaty.

Guests at the luncheon described the atmosphere as "tense" when Lange got up to answer Mikoyan.

Finns Leave For Crucial Talks With K

HELSINKI (Reuters) — President Urho Kekkonen of Finland and Foreign Minister Ahti Karjalainen left here today by train for the Soviet Union and crucial talks with Premier Khrushchev.

Their departure came amid anxious speculation by the Finnish people on possible new Soviet demands on this small northern country.

The Finnish party will arrive in Moscow Thursday and fly on some 2,000 miles east of Novosibirsk, Siberia, for talks Friday with the Soviet premier on Russia's demand for negotiations because of the "threat of an attack from West Germany and her allies" in NATO. Khrushchev currently is touring central Asian farmlands.

The Finns were worried about possible new Soviet pressure on their country. There was speculation Russia wanted to see the Communists, biggest single group in Finland's parliament, taken into the government. The government now is a minority agrarian party regime.

More optimistic people thought the crisis—began Oct. 30 when the Kremlin sounded its West German "attack threat"—might end with a simple Soviet demand for the strengthening of Finland's defence forces. At present these are not even up to the low maximum permitted under its Second World War peace treaty.

Observers speculated about whether the Russians would press for a quick start to military consultations on the basis of the 1948 Russo-Finnish mutual assistance treaty. A Russian note Oct. 30 asked for consultations under its terms on the grounds of the West German "threat."

U.S. Anxious To Get Started

By FRANK RUTTER

New moves in three capitals which may lead to a breakthrough in the B.C.-Ottawa deadlock over the Columbia River power project were in sight today.

Most important was in Washington where U.S. government sources said President Kennedy may invite Prime Minister Diefenbaker to the U.S. capital next week to discuss a speedup.

In Victoria, meanwhile, Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston said that talks between Premier Bennett and Mr. Kennedy last week in Seattle "were productive." It was also learned here that Mr. Williston recently held talks with two federal cabinet ministers and found them favorable to B.C.'s plan to sell Columbia downstream benefits to the U.S.

This followed a Times Ottawa report that the federal cabinet is "coming around" to B.C.'s view despite a split among B.C. federal ministers. Heart of the matter is whether the downstream benefits could be sold, and if they could be sold for Premier Bennett's asking price of five mills per kilowatt hour, enough to pay for construction of Columbia dams in B.C.

There were two firm indications today to strengthen this policy.

In Seattle, U.S. Interior Secretary Charles Udall said speedup talks on the Columbia have been held formally with Ottawa and informally with B.C.

He also said that the Bonneville Power Administration would have authority to act as a purchaser of power from Canada to serve the Pacific Northwest.

And in Victoria, B.C. Power Commission chairman Dr. H. L. Keenleyside said that recent information has made B.C. more optimistic than ever it can market power in the U.S.

He did not say where the information came from, but it is believed a direct result of the premier's Seattle meetings last week.

Dr. Keenleyside, testifying at a public hearing on B.C. Hydro's application for a licence to build three dams on the Columbia Tuesday, said the details of the U.S. market prospect would be disclosed after the licence is awarded and when B.C. Hydro applies to the cabinet for funds to build the dams.

He said studies earlier this year indicated "a possibility" of a U.S. market. "Further studies that have been made since that time strengthen the latter assumption very much indeed," he added.

There are only two holdups at present: the water licence, without which work cannot be started; and Canadian ratification of a treaty with the U.S. defining the sharing of benefits from the scheme.

The meetings held by Mr. Williston were at Montreal at the end of October. He saw federal Resources Minister Walter Dinsdale and Forests Minister Hugh John Flemming and that they were favorable to the B.C. plan.

These meetings, it was learned, were very much "off the record."

However, asked about his general view of the chance of a successful solution to the Columbia problems, Mr. Williston said:

"I've always been optimistic about it. The way things have been moving along lately seems to bear it out."

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

Oak Bay reeveship candidate Jack Barracough is wondering how—and if—the centennial committee plans to make use of Victoria Symphony Orchestra in next summer's celebrations.

"The deliberations are too deliberate" is his estimate of a situation in which no positive approach has been made to the Symphony Society nor even tentative plans broached.

When, he wonders, are councils and committees going to wake up to the fact that such organizations as the symphony cannot set up schedules for concerts overnight.

When Jack is reeve, maybe?

A "shameful confession" was made at the annual "Top Management" banquet of the Victoria Chapter, National Office Management Association, Tuesday night by Ray McDaniel, Vancouver chapter head.

Now "closer to 50 than I like to think about," Mr. McDaniel told the group, born and raised in Vancouver and having travelled all over North America—"this is the first time I have ever visited Victoria."

The recent television squabble over Canadian football playoffs has been quite difficult to understand but if stated simply it is really quite simple. Here it is:

CBC TV's W.F.U. and CFTO allow CTV the E.F.U. but the C.F.U. wants U to C both W.F.U. and E.F.U., therefore CFTO and CTV will let CBC TV E.F.U. in W.F.U. areas if W.F.U. may be shown in E.F.U. areas. CBC told CTV that CFTO could not TV W.F.U., so N.G. Now CFTO tells CTV that CBC can TV W.F.U. in E.F.U. areas and also TV E.F.U. in W.F.U. Q.E.D.

A reader wrote to us asking whether Lelord Kordel was still alive, how old he is, and if he is dead, when did he die, and at what age? She probably forgot to ask what he might have died of: When you are about to go on a diet recommended by a virtual stranger, it is always best to check up on the state of his health.

An appropriate sign was mounted on the rear bumper of a tiny automobile seen in Oak Bay the other day. It read: "Please go around—not over."

Then there was another one, seen on a big sleek car on Blenkinsop Road. It read: "Have wife, can't travel."

That doughy Guardsman, Major Cuthbert Holmes, is due back in town shortly from an extended visit overseas, during which he had a stimulating reunion with Lord Alanbrooke, to whom he is related by marriage. Cuthbert's summation: "What a brain!" Alanbrooke of course is the former Churchill winger who was the central figure of Arthur Bryant's great war reminiscence, "The Turn of the Tide."

Percy Richards, former secretary to premier Boss Johnson, is now executive secretary of the Heart Foundation in Montreal. During a recent city visit he said that he gave up his newspaper editorship in Ethiopia because the Communists were taking over the country. "On my fifth anniversary as editor I got a gold medal," said Percy. "But the pressures were building up and we decided to leave."

Ryron Johnson Jr. has moved from Vancouver to Salmon Arm, where he's bought a builders' supply business.

Bob Wright, Victoria Press advertising man, had his picture in Sports Illustrated last week. It seems that Bob did well in some kind of local fishing contest but—well, let us repeat the SI caption:

"Robert Wright, 31, an advertising man from Victoria, B.C., competing in tournament at Vancouver, turned in the largest catches in six categories (spring, tye and coho salmon, smallmouth bass, rainbow and lake trout), was named the Compleat Angler."

Our local contractors might well profit from the example of a South Korean village described by Unitarian Services Committee executive director, Dr. Lotta Hiltzmanova.

The Kiwanis Village Society will conduct a one-night "blitz," December 4, to raise funds to complete its villa.

The villa accommodates 50 persons now but will be able to house 25 to 30 more when completed.

Some funds from the blitz will also be allotted to the construction of permanent dining facilities and recreational quarters.

Volunteers, 1,800 strong, are needed for the one-night stand and may call EV 5-0931 or inquire at HQ, 313 Jones Building.

Organisms Survive Cold After 50 Years

McMURDO SOUND, Antarctica (AP)—The discovery of living bacteria left in Antarctica by the famed Scott and Shackleton expeditions of nearly 50 years ago was reported Tuesday.

The bacteria, which apparently survived by literally feeding on their own tissue while locked in the frozen grip of this strange continent, may have taught scientists at least one new lesson about the nature of bacteria in general, their discoverer said.

Intestinal organisms were found frozen, but still with life in them, in human solid waste retrieved from outhouse receptacles used by the explorers.

The recovered organisms, still in a dormant state, were placed in laboratory culture material and caused to multiply, said George Meyer, microbiologist of the University of Texas. Meyer is one of 200 scientists doing research in the Antarctic under sponsorship of the United States National Science Foundation.

ONLY ONE OF 223 GOES 'OVER THE HILL'

Militiamen Knuckling Down

By AR KENT

Those aren't tearstains on the floor at the Bay Street Armory. They're toll stains.

According to Maj. E. W. Thomas, 25 Militia Group adjutant and administrative boss of the 219-man national survival training course in its third week:

"It's damn hard work. Especially for some of the people who have been out of a job for some time."

The men volunteered for training in survival skills in the first of four six-week courses ordered by the federal government to build up a 100,000-man force trained as militia to help Canada withstand nuclear attack.

Trainees, between 18 and 50, came off the street, from National Employment Service rolls, out of school and on leave of absence from regular jobs. Although medical and general qualifications were relaxed below normal militia-entry standard, some of them obviously were misfits from the start.

Yet, only four of the 223 starters have dropped out: One man disappeared "over the hill."

Two failed to meet final medical requirements. One was allowed to take up permanent employment.

It turned out after two weeks' shakedown, the men turned out "better than expected," Maj. Thomas said.

"I am much happier about the situation than when the program was announced."

Last week the men were asked how many were interested in joining the regular militia when their course is finished.

WANT TO STAY
In Victoria, Nanaimo, Port Alberni and Courtenay, approximately 50 per cent of the trainees signified they were.

"It is very indicative of the fact they feel there is something to this," said Maj. Thomas. "If the men themselves didn't like the course, they wouldn't be so definite about wanting to stay with the militia."

"We have noticed an improvement in the way men appear, the way they wear their uniforms and take pride in themselves."

"Each day we see more self-respect emerge," he said.

INCENTIVE

The six weeks of full-time training are equivalent to a year's training in the regular militia. Therefore the course is an incentive to some to prepare for a militia role, to which they could be assigned immediately and at a pay rate they would otherwise have to wait a year for.

Basic army training forms part of each day's work, including weapons handling, drill, physical fitness, map reading, and so on.

The rest of the time the men get basic survival and rescue courses, including first aid, radiation monitoring and traffic control.

FIRST AID

All have the opportunity within the training period of qualifying for St. John Ambulance certification in first aid. The men work hard during classes, then leave it all until next day. There is no homework.

At the end, the corps of militia and regular army instructors, plus special calouts, make a personal assessment of each trainee.

He will have to write formal exams and pass practical tests.

But those sweat stains do buy bread—$43 worth every week.

Latch Too High For Trapped Tots

VANCOUVER (CP)—Three little children killed in a Point Grey House fire were trapped in a basement recreation room because a door latch was too high for them to reach.

This was the conclusion reached by Fire Warden Harold McColm Tuesday as he recounted the Saturday tragedy which took the lives of Dennis Birchall, 4; his brother, Ian, 18 months, and their cousin, Stephen Cowan, 2.

Warden McColm told an inquest jury flames which burst through a furnace room wall while the children were playing blocked an inside stairway, their only other escape route besides the door with the latch too high to reach.

The three tots fled to the coolest spot they could find—under a ping pong table. It was there their bodies were found.

Ann Heglin, 724 Yates, pleaded not guilty in city police court today to a charge of dealing with a forged cheque.

Magistrate William Ostler remanded her for trial to Nov. 30 and set bail at $500.

Teen-Age Girls Caught in Probe

VANCOUVER—A police investigation of a magazine subscription company's hiring policy and sales techniques was revealed Tuesday with the appearance of three Prairie salesgirls in court on vagrancy charges.

Caroline Stachura, 18, of Saskatoon, Joan Dennison, 19, of Calgary and Joy Dyck, 19, of Medicine Hat were arrested during the weekend in a city motel.

The charge against the Saskatoon girl was dismissed when she testified she was not without funds. The crown entered a stay of proceedings in the other cases.

Police said an investigation is continuing into the use of teen-age salesmen and saleswomen and high-pressure tactics in a house-to-house campaign.

The teenagers were recruited from Prairie points and hired on a six-month commission contract basis, police said. The sales teams worked their way west until they reached the coast.

Police said they are also investigating reports some of the teen-agers have been left stranded because of a holdback of commissions until they have completed their six-month contract.

LATEST NEWS on search for lost son, Michael, is given New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller, and daughter, Mrs. Mary Strawbridge, by Rear-Admiral Leonard Resser, commander of Dutch New Guinea naval forces aiding in hunt, on arrival at Blak in Dutch New Guinea. (AP Wirephoto.)

ROCKEFELLER SEARCH

Reports Raise, Dampen Hopes

HOLLANDIA, Dutch New Guinea (AP)—Optimistic reports from searchers today raised New York Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller's hopes that his son Michael would be found alive.

Arriving in Dutch New Guinea after a trans-Pacific jet flight, Rockefeller was told that his son was only about two miles offshore Sunday when he began swimming toward land and not 15 miles as reported earlier.

Dutch navy men told the governor they had hopes Michael—a strong swimmer—had reached the shore because a radar search had found no trace of the two empty gasoline cans the youth had been using as a makeshift raft.

A spokesman for the governor, said if Michael, 23, had reached the shore, there is a chance he may be alive. He added that a Dutch marine was recently lost in the same area and was rescued after eight days.

The governor flew from here Tuesday to Merauke, on the southeast coast, the headquarters for the search of Flamingo Bay, where the governor's son disappeared Sunday.

A much less optimistic report came from reporter Brian Hogben of the Sydney, Australia, Daily Mirror who after a flight over the Flamingo Bay swamp area said he was convinced "only a miracle" could save young Rockefeller.

Writing from Merauke, Hogben said he flew at treetop height over the desolate, swampy area and if Michael got ashore, "he faces crocodiles, poisonous snakes, giant leeches and mile on mile of stinking swamp."

"I did not catch a sign of any sort of life as we skimmed over the area in which Michael could have landed."

In the Australian section of this island, Papua, district commissioner F. A. Benstead described the search area as "the worst in the world" and said: "I am afraid there is not much chance that he will be found alive."

JFK Grants Interview To Soviet Journalist

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A series of exclusive interviews, frequently in the form of written replies to formally submitted questions, with the late Josef Stalin, as well as Khrushchev.

Kennedy has granted an exclusive interview to Alexei I. Adzhubel, editor of Izvestia and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's son-in-law. White House officials believe it will be the first time an American president has been interviewed exclusively by a Soviet journalist.

OFFICIAL ORGAN
Adzhubel is more than a journalist in the American frame of reference. His newspaper is the official organ of the Soviet government.

He also is a powerful government official. At the recent 22nd party congress in Moscow, Adzhubel was elected to the Communist Party central committee.

American reporters and editors for some years have had a series of exclusive interviews, frequently in the form of written replies to formally submitted questions, with the late Josef Stalin, as well as Khrushchev.

IN MOST PAPERS

Results of these interviews have appeared in most U.S. newspapers. The Russian public, on the other hand, reads of American presidents only what the Soviet government wants printed. Some U.S. presidential statements are reproduced at length in Russia. Others are not reported to the Russian people at all.

Kennedy hoped by receiving Adzhubel to get across to the Russians at some length his position on a number of touchy cold war issues. If Izvestia and other Russian newspapers print the Kennedy interview in its entirety, this will be highly gratifying to the White House and state department as possibly reflecting a significant change in U.S.S.R. policy.

On the Fence

AS A RECENT SERIES OF DISPATCHES in this newspaper argued, the economy of the free world is now moving toward drastic change, for better or worse.

Britain's entry into the Common Market of itself will revise the trading patterns of the north Atlantic region. If Britain fails to join the European Six—a prospect as unlikely as it would be disastrous—the existing patterns could still not be maintained. For in that case Britain, losing its expected opportunities on the continent, would demand a complete overhaul of Commonwealth tariffs, including those of Canada.

While Britain prepares itself for the largest economic, and perhaps the largest political decision in centuries, the Kennedy administration prepares to ask the Congress for a top-to-bottom downward revision of the American tariff system. And if this fails the United States probably will revert to higher tariffs with catastrophic effects on the business of every free nation, especially Canada.

Hence in Canada we face a new situation as vital in its consequences, for better or worse, as Britain's repeal of the Corn Laws and the erection of the protectionist American system in the nineteenth century. But unhappily the Canadian government so far has not faced that situation. While events move rapidly and under strong leadership in London, Washington and Brussels, capital of the Common Market, Ottawa remains hesitant, confused and impotent.

Until last midsummer the Diefenbaker government operated on the assumption that Britain would not join the Common Market in the end if Canada and other overseas Commonwealth nations raised sufficient objection.

This objection was accordingly raised in strident tones—increasingly strident as Britain moved steadily toward Europe until a bitter and unprecedented quarrel developed between London and Ottawa and Canada's reputation suffered a tragic collapse in Britain.

Then, within the last fortnight, the Canadian government seemed to experience second thoughts, very late. The recent speeches of Messrs. Diefenbaker, Fleming and Hees indicate that at last they recognize the probability that Britain will join the Common Market not at some remote date but before the end of 1962 at latest. Evidently they also realize that the United States will soon re-shape its tariff policy with fundamental changes, downward or upward.

Hence the sudden swerve in the Canadian government's thinking, or at least in its speeches.

Mr. Hees went to New York not long ago to urge a worldwide attack on trade barriers, though he had formerly denounced all such proposals from Mr. Pearson as unrealistic and dangerous.

Mr. Fleming went to Edmonton and announced that Canada could not join in any transatlantic trade deal unless the United States played a major role in it—this though Mr. Fleming had repeatedly denounced any such project as unthinkable when it was advocated by Mr. Pearson.

Mr. Fleming did not add, however, that Canada would participate even if the United States led the way. For Canada's participation would compel, of course, a reduction in Canadian tariffs when in fact the government, for all its current speeches, is trying to restrict imports by tariffs, taxation devices, "made-in-Canada" formulae and currency devaluation.

What does all this mean? Does it mean that the government has finally abandoned its bullying attempt to keep Britain out of the Common Market? Does it mean that the government has decided to reverse its policy, co-operate with the British and American governments and play its full part in the creation of a free world economic community, the real objective of Britain and the United States?

It is to be doubted that Ottawa has made up its own mind. More likely, the federal government is merely trying to readjust its political tactics not its policy. So far anyway, there is no coherent Canadian policy, only speeches on both sides of the fence. Though Canada is the fourth trading nation in the world and thus could exercise great influence on events, it refuses its chance of leadership and asks others to lead.

Still, it is encouraging in a small, a very small, way to see that the government no longer pretends that events will stand still for its convenience. It may not agree with Mr. Pearson but it realizes that he was right two years ago, and the government, wrong, in judging the world climate.

Mr. Pearson's general analysis has been completely vindicated by recent developments in London, Brussels and Washington. His general remedy is now the firm policy of Britain, the United States and it is to be hoped, of the European Six. But behind its contradictory speeches Ottawa continues to drift.

From Our Plenty

ONCE AGAIN THE PLIGHT OF many of the children of India has been put before the Canadian public by Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova. For thousands of boys and girls of the sub-continent, getting enough to eat is a daily problem and a chancy one. It is for these—and other unfortunate children in other lands—that the Unitarian Services Committee asks help each year.

Last year Canadians supplied some $240,000 for the work and residents of Victoria gave generously to the Christmas season appeal. The Times again sponsors the local campaign, and will serve as headquarters for donations.

Previous projects have included food and hospital care for Korean children, food for Indian youngsters, and assistance to make many of the village residents of Asian countries more self-supporting. It is a work that never ceases, supported by generosity that likewise must not fail.

From the comfort and plenty of our own lives we are asked to send a little of the bare necessities of living to India's children. It is a worthy appeal that we should answer.

Strength in Weakness

THE STRENGTH WHICH THE Canadian dollar showed during October, and which cost Canadian taxpayers nearly $200 millions to control, appears to be abating. This means that there is less demand for the Canadian dollar in the currency markets, and it has slipped to nearly 4 per cent discount in terms of the United States dollar, the lowest point in nearly 10 years.

Mr. Fleming has undertaken to throw Canadian funds into the market in an effort to hold the discount at about 3 per cent or more. To make these huge purchases he has had to borrow, further adding to his already serious financial difficulties.

Fruits of Mistrust

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, in a piece from Hohe Geiss, Germany, presents an enlightening example of the seeds of mistrust and their effect on human behaviour.

According to the news service, a patrol of West German border guards saw two young East German guards walking along the plowed "death strip" dividing their respective territories. One of the West Germans called "Good morning" to the two East Germans. The latter walked along, eyes front, and did not reply.

When they had passed, the East German youth in the rear put his finger to his lips, indicating that he dared not speak, pointed to his companion walking ahead, shrugged and continued on his way. "Both patrols completed their march, turned and passed again. The same procedure followed, except that in the second instance the East German guards had changed places, and the former leader was walking in the rear. His gestures disclosed his distrust of his partner."

Opinion among the experts is divided as to whether the trend is a temporary one or indicates a major movement. If the latter, Mr. Fleming's burden will be made a little easier, as will be that of the Canadian taxpayer. Exports will be encouraged and employment increased, while imports will be discouraged and the balance of payments brought nearer into line.

Two human beings, with apparent instincts of friendliness, had been robbed of their ability to express that sentiment because each feared the other's reaction toward a cordial gesture extended to the "enemy."

The "brotherhood of man" takes its beatings in many forms.

A LITTLE TOO WARM FOR COMFORT

After Us, the Deluge—and Maybe on Us the Deluge Too

By B. A. TOBIN

QUITE UNNOTICED by most people a new and horrible hazard is threatening our world. Most of us have foolishly let our attention be diverted by such trivial threats as The Bomb, fallout, the population explosion, germ warfare, intercontinental missiles, Strontium in the milk, the stirrings of the Red Chinese giant (who is working feverishly on a Bomb for himself), the looming food shortage for a world population that is zooming, the falling water table, the erosion of arable land and such little problems of comfortable survival on this planet. But we've all overlooked one factor that could put most of the others in the back pages of the newspaper some day—for a while at least. It's getting warmer.

Tobin

Yes, it's getting warmer. The average temperatures of the earth are slowly rising, according to those who concern themselves with such things. Since the turn of the century the average temperatures in the northern hemisphere have risen by about one degree.

Not much, you say? But get the rest of the picture.

A British climatologist, Mr. C. E. P. Brooks, has been busy with his thermometers and his slide rule. He has figured out that a further rise of only two degrees in the average temperatures would melt enough Arctic ice to raise the ocean levels all over the globe.

What would be the result? Such sea-side resorts as London and New York would find sea water pouring into their basements and perhaps even into their first-floor dwellings. If there had not been time or opportunity to build dams and dykes, some of the greatest cities of the world would become drowned as thoroughly as the legendary Atlantis.

And not only the great ones. Think of Vancouver and Victoria with six feet of water creeping up Granville Street and Fort Street respectively. Think of our whole area becoming a part of the Strait, with only a few islands left to dot the scene—Tolmie Island, Douglas Island, Smith's Hill Reservoir Isle and Gonzales Island.

Try that on your tourist brochures, Mr. Hawkins, and see what response there'd be.

It seems incredible that there could be enough ice up around the North Pole to produce that much water, but that's what the experts reckon. And if you add in the huge ice masses of Antarctica it'll be a case of lower away the lifeboats and save qui peut.

One of the intriguing things about this melting menace is that there isn't a thing we can do about it. We can get together and ban The Bomb, we can wipe out or make friends with Red China, we can abolish fallout and Strontium or stop drinking milk, we can agree not to indulge in germ warfare and we could even get together on voluntarily limiting the world's population and so ease the ultimate food problem.

But we can't do anything about the temperature trend, which apparently moves in vast cycles of warmer, colder, warmer, colder, with the ice caps and the ocean depths, varying accordingly. There isn't any use organizing the Voice of Women or of anybody else. Petitions will mean nothing. Even committee meetings will get nowhere. We just have to sit and take it.

Of course, we can prepare for the effects even if we can't influence them. We can get out of the lowlands, build houseboats and arks, learn to swim, cultivate a taste for sea food and water-cress and otherwise gird ourselves for the ordeal.

I'm not just sure at the moment how long we have before the warming process gives us those two vital degrees. It may be decades, centuries or millennia. There's so little to be done about it it's hardly worth looking it up.

But in the meantime it occurs to me that the Cadboro Bay area would be right in a front seat for the show. Perhaps in the next century or so I might look over a few likely properties in the High Quadra district. A fallout shelter full of cold sea water strikes me as a negative approach to living.

Some concession will have to be made from our side, and it is still may view that East Germany ought to be recognized. The case against de jure recognition (of any Communist regime) is well stated by Mr. George F. Kennan in his masterpiece, "Russia and the West Under Lenin and Stalin." But Mr. Kennan is not opposed to de facto recognition, though he admits that "the distinction has worn thin on occasions."

Ulbricht is indeed, among Communist bosses, almost uniquely odious, and Khrushchev would ease the task of the West (and probably make life easier for himself) if he could get rid of Ulbricht and substitute a pro-consul of the Gomulka type. But he may not feel able to destroy too many Communist idols simultaneously.

The West has a duty this winter to keep calm. Steady and united strength is needed—not petty bravado. We must look very hard at the underlying realities and, in doing so, may come to the conclusion that the 50-megaton bomb was after all quite a good thing.

It would be premature to say that the Berlin crisis is over. But it is perhaps not too sanguine to say that it has entered a new and more hopeful phase. Now that the West has established its determination to fight, if necessary, for the freedom of West Berlin and the right of access to it, and now that Khrushchev has demonstrated that his bombs are the biggest and best, a situation exists in which negotiation may be possible.

The lifting of the deadline for a separate peace treaty with East Germany is a definite concession by Khrushchev, which is enough to justify the explosion of a few bombs for the sake of prestige—just as de Gaulle's concessions on Algeria justify his atomic tests in the Sahara, for similar reasons. Statesmen must sometimes be allowed to make a very loud noise in order to cover the tell-tale sound of their retreating footsteps.

That a bloodless victory over Berlin would provide him with the sideshow he needed. Fortunately the Western governments have not been prepared to barter the freedom of West Berlin for an ignoble and impermanent peace. The snivelling cant of the unilateralists and neutralists has not stamped people in the mass, or unnerved their leaders.

The resumption of nuclear tests in the atmosphere was not Khrushchev's first choice, because it was bound to be a gift to Western propagandists and an embarrassment to those "uncommitted" nations whose policy it is to excuse the Russians and blackguard the West if they are given half a chance.

But finding that a bloodless victory over Berlin was not available, he switched to the alternative without too much anxiety or regret. Neutrals do not bother him unduly. His concern is to be the effective ruler of Russia and to show the Chinese where they get off.

There was a time when oxen and horses were raised just for the work their owners could get out of keeping them. That day is past for horses and oxen. Why then should the human animal who has proved his ability to free the horse from labor, still be condemned to hardship and poverty unless he is lucky enough to find a place where he can labor?

So long as we in Canada are able to keep up the necessary amount of production to meet our needs through increasing use of machinery, why look upon unemployment as a menace to our national welfare?

By Lord Altrincham, in The Guardian

The 50-Megaton Bomb: After All Quite a Good Thing?

I DO not normally hold a brief for the Soviet dictator. Nor am I unaware of the noxious effects of nuclear testing. All the same, I think we may now be in danger of quite seriously misjudging Mr. Khrushchev.

The explosion of the 50-megaton bomb has distracted attention from the very significant concession on Berlin contained in Khrushchev's speech to the 22nd Congress on October 17. Even the final degradation of Stalin—the removal of his body from the mausoleum in Red Square—has been overshadowed. No doubt this is exactly what Khrushchev intended.

If Pope John XXIII were to proclaim that his predecessor was a sinister and egotistical tyrant, that his remains were being removed from the crypt of St. Peter's, and that the doctrine of the Assumption was a fraud, he would be wise to perform a miracle to coincide with the proclamation. The 50-megaton bomb is Khrushchev's "miracle."

Khrushchev may well have hoped that a bloodless victory over Berlin would provide him with the sideshow he needed. Fortunately the Western governments have not been prepared to barter the freedom of West Berlin for an ignoble and impermanent peace. The snivelling cant of the unilateralists and neutralists has not stamped people in the mass, or unnerved their leaders.

Silenus: Silence or Silliness?

Pathway to Leisure

May I offer just a few lines of congratulation to the prime minister of Canada and to the Canadian people on the steady growth of unemployment.

That should be a heavenly situation, not too easily come by. Why should people be dependent upon labor, on finding jobs of work to do, when we have the ability to make machines that can do double the work, with no strain or stress, or hardship entailed? Why should people, children, any more than horses be raised, educated, broken to tasks, when with labor unneeded they can be free to play, to enjoy life and games, live in freedom, comfort and happiness.

There was a time when oxen and horses were raised just for the work their owners could get out of keeping them. That day is past for horses and oxen. Why then should the human animal who has proved his ability to free the horse from labor, still be condemned to hardship and poverty unless he is lucky enough to find a place where he can labor?

Go to Any Lengths

In reference to the article by Silenus last Nov. 18, I write in defence of the Canadian Peace Research Institute.

After the billions of dollars already spent on a defence budget, defunct aircraft, etc., etc., year after year, $2,000,000 is a small sum indeed to pay for peace. I personally feel we should go to any lengths, with money and effort, to find the formulae for peace.

Obviously the esteemed gentlemen who run our country and have run the world for centuries have never found the solution. Therefore it needs trained and scientific minds to do this for us. How can Silenus condemn this project, still in its embryo stage? And as far as Drs. Chisholm and Keenleyside being idiots, does Silenus not remember that the majority of great men in history have been labeled similarly?

I am writing in defence of the proposed Canadian Peace Research Institute, described by Silenus as an ad-hoc scheme. I shall not miss the twenty cents, as that is what $2,000,000 amounts to per capita, but if anyone

Hardly Worth a Reply

The remarks made by Silenus about Dr. N. Z. Alcock and the Canadian Peace Research Institute seem hardly worthy of a reply since Silenus is defined in the Encyclopaedia Britannica as, "a little pot-bellied old man, with a snub nose and a bald head; riding on an ass and supported by satyrs," obviously neither an intelligent nor a reputable character.

Dr. N. Z. Alcock is a Canadian engineer and physicist, and holds several degrees. (B.Sc. Queen's University; M.Sc. California Institute of Technology; Ph.D. McGill University). He has carried out research with the National Research Council of Canada; Telecommunications Research Establishment, England; and Atomic Energy of Canada. Furthermore, Dr. Alcock is 43 years of age and in full possession of all his faculties.

He decided that he would be doing a greater service to mankind in working for peace and has given up a brilliant career in electronics in order to do this.

Reading Interest

B. A. Tobin's article in Nov. 13th Times really caught my attention!

There is no doubt about it, the Canadian Primary Reader is an eyesore. A neighbor gave my little girl some first grade reading books, that her children had finished with. Though they are nicely illustrated the vocabulary in which they are written is terrible.

I am not too old to have forgotten my first readers, back in Ireland. They were far more advanced than today's first readers in this country! Children started to school at four then too, in Ireland.

I had a friend in England send me out a current first reader there to compare the two, the Canadian one and it. What a difference! No "Look, Look," or "See, See" in it. It certainly wouldn't bore a child, or put him off reading.

I don't think the Canadian child is any slower to learn than children in other lands. It's just the education authorities who do not understand the mental intake of a five or six year old.

When the education authority in Canada wakes up to this fact—then her students will be able to take their place beside those children in Europe, Russia and Britain.

Let them throw out "Look, Look," and "See, See" readers and replace them with something children would be eager to study. Even children can get bored!

Oak Bay Library

I read that Mr. Gordon Elworthy in Tuesday's paper advocates a reference library and reading room in Oak Bay as part of his plan for an Oak Bay recreation centre.

I have done a great deal of research on the subject of a local library. What is needed here is a lending library to cater for the elderly people who now have to take infrequent downtown bus services and for our children, who can seldom get downtown at all.

Is Mr. Elworthy prepared to cater to this need? He would make a great many friends if he did.

No More Rolling Syllables

A COLLEAGUE of mine is saving a gem from this year's municipal election campaign oratory. It is the statement of a candidate who has made public his opinion on a particular issue—a firm stand, an unequivocal stand.

The candidate reportedly said: "I am absolutely and positively non-committal."

How can you convey a more decisive impression of indecision than that?

This statement deserves its place with that splendid announcement, given in terms of absolute conviction, which Mr. Gagliardi made some years ago to the provincial legislature: "If I'm telling a lie it's because I think it's the truth."

There will doubtless be more semantic treasures revealed as the election campaign builds up steam. Nothing, under such pressure, is more certain than that words will flow from the mouths of aspirants for office with no apparent control from the mind.

A candidate is much too busy thinking of a hundred and one things when he's electioneering to waste much thought on what he's saying. And, after all, is what he says important in comparison to the sincerity with which he says it?

I have heard of an impassioned speech by a very distinguished and literate member of our community in which he electrified an audience by announcing "Our future lies before us." Later, in an appeal for courage, he called upon his listeners to bring their "backbones to the front"—a concept which received unusual anatomical treatment from cartoonists of that time.

I've listened to a few candidates myself and have come away bemused by what some said. Not all of my stupefaction was caused by statements which contained no sense or which were complete contradictions. Often I wandered into the night from a political meeting drunk with the sheer magic of dramatic oratory.

Where today, I wonder, can you find rolling, impressive sentences to match those of the late Frank Higgins and the late Frank LeRoy when they found a convenient vehicle for their rhetoric at meetings of the old Victoria Ratepayers' Association.

Who now can attribute public debt, as Mr. Higgins did in thundering syllables, to "the saturnalian debauch of expenditure" in which his opponents wallowed? Why, in this over-refined age, it's considered improper even to accuse your political enemies of squandering public funds on booze and blondes with a penchant for mink stoles.

You could listen to Mr. Higgins and conjure up guilty sights of Bacchanalian revels with drunken, toga-clad figures chasing dancing girls through Roman banquet halls glittering in torchlight—all, somehow, paid for by the meagre savings of broken and sorrow-burdened Victoria home-owners.

Frank's oratory could do that to you, leave you reeling. A civic election campaign in his day seemed to contain the ingredients of a Henry VIII feast, with eggs of fowl and haunches of venison to gnaw on while wine goblets spilled all over the table.

Funny, though, Mr. Higgins didn't get himself elected. I came to the conclusion that the voters refused to picture themselves as modified Bob Cratchits. Nor could they see themselves as victims of civic improvidence and the profligacy of the apparently staid mayors and aldermen they knew.

Still, the meetings made good theatre of their kind. You didn't attend to become informed. You went for the show.

The performance has changed since then. The old character actors have gone. It's a different type of entertainment and the oratory has lost much of its fire. Mrs. Malaprop now presides.

How does the new compare with the old? Take it from me without evasion, equivocation or mental reservation of any kind, on that point I am absolutely and positively non-committal.

"We'd like a piece of furniture that could do that!"

Britain, Malaya Near Accord on 'Malaysia'

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain and Malaya were reported Tuesday to have reached a virtual agreement in talks on the creation of a "greater Malaysia" comprising Malaya and Singapore and the British territories of North Borneo, Brunei and Sarawak.

However, one conference source said Malaya made it clear that it would not accept any merger arrangement under which Singapore would remain a member of the South-east Asia Treaty Organization.

He said the opposition to SEATO was expressed Tuesday by Malayan Premier Tunku (Prince) Abdul Rahman.

It was reported that Rahman said many Malaysians are strongly opposed to SEATO. Britain, which now controls Singapore's defence, is a member of SEATO. Malaya is not. The source said the Malayan leader's stand was that some arrangements would have to be worked out similar to the one under which Malaya must be consulted by Britain on the movement of any Malaya-based British troops outside the Malayan federation.

Would You Like a Second Income?

Hundreds of people like you now enjoy a SECOND INCOME. They actually share in the profits of major Canadian industries. By periodic purchases of Trans-Canada shares, they build up an investment in such solid and profitable Canadian corporations as Imperial Oil Limited, International Nickel Company, Ford Motor Company of Canada and many others.

Costs Only Pennies a Day

Although a single share in any one of these companies may sell for from fifty to a hundred dollars or more, you can participate in the plan for just pennies a day. In other words, you don't have to be wealthy to take part in the Trans-Canada Investment Plan, and to share in the dividends paid by leading Canadian corporations. You can even have life insurance added, at no cost to you. If you choose the Trans-Canada self-insured investment plan.

Trans-Canada Investment Corp. Ltd. is one of the oldest organizations in the field. During their twenty-eight years, they have paid out hundreds of thousands of dollars to investors—have never failed to pay a dividend!

More Money for Schools Pledged by Ontario Gov't

TORONTO (CP)—Increased spending on education and industrial development, consolidation of hydro-electric power systems and new steps against crime were among measures pledged today by the Ontario government in the speech from the throne.

The 3,500-word speech was read by Lieutenant-Governor J. Keiller Mackay at the opening of the third session of the province's 26th legislature.

It promised a "major increase in the province's assistance to education" and said unspecified amendments will be introduced to six separate acts concerning education.

The government "will introduce legislation providing for the creation of an Ontario police commission vested with comprehensive powers relating to the maintenance of law and order in Ontario."

No outline was given of the commission's functions, but its creation follows denials by Attorney-General Roberts that organized crime is reaching into Ontario.

Hydro-electric power systems in northern and southern Ontario will be consolidated to "provide for the financial integration of all systems and permit a more economical development and operation of electric power plants throughout the whole province."

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Those Absent-Minded Doctors

LONDON — Britain's Medical Defence Union has issued a caution to doctors and hospitals here about mixing up patients in the operating room, and mixing up operations for patients on the operating table.

And not before time, either, apparently, for the Medical Defence Union, which represents doctors in court cases, says in the British Medical Journal there have been 28 mix-ups here in the past two years.

"It is hardly necessary to say that these avoidable mistakes are indefensible," the MDU said tartly. And the medical journal noted solemnly that in recent years the MDU has twice warned "about operating on the wrong patient, or the wrong part of him."

Such mistakes are rare, of course, the journal hastily added, and some of them—such as the removal of a patient's wrong finger—cause inconvenience rather than catastrophe. But any mistake, it went on, can be "a haunting reproach to the surgeon"—and presumably just as haunting for the patient.

Among the causes of operating mix-ups, the MDU noted the following:

Some doctors and nurses are such poor penmen that their "right" or "left" notations about the site of a patient's illness are not decipherable.

The case history of one patient sometimes winds up with another.

Last minute changes in operating room schedules, and shifting of patients and beds.

The MDU suggested hospitals clearly identify patients on arrival, and that surgeons visit them in their rooms before they are wheeled off to the operating rooms—where now they are identified only as "the patient from such and such a ward."

Parsley, Mint, Chives for Potting

It is not too soon to think of a few things which might be Christmas in the kitchen at Christmas.

Parsley for chopping into the turkey stuffing is one. It will have many other uses too, such as sprigs inside each turkey and ham sandwich later in the season and as a decorative accompaniment to crackers and cream cheese.

Fresh parsley is so healthful that no gardener likes to be without a continuous supply, and many years this is easily accomplished here in our coastal gardens.

As a precaution against hard weather, however, it is a good plan to take a small plan or two now from the garden for potting up so that it may continue growing in a covered cold frame, a greenhouse or a sun-room.

Parsley likes a rich soil, so a little horse manure rubbed to a powder and added to the potting soil will make the leaves come along in a hurry if the plants are small, as they should be for successful potting.

Another useful thing to pot up now is a root of one of the mint with a particularly fine flavor. The fresh leaves will always improve peas which are not garden fresh but are canned or frozen. Many people use the leaves also in various pleasant drinks, either hot or cold.

Chives are most acceptable during winter, adding zest to the heavier foods which we tend to eat at this time of year. Pot up a root or two.

A rich moist soil and five-inch pots are most suitable for growing any and all of these plants indoors.

Once they begin to show signs of renewed growth, liquid fish fertilizer in the recommended solution will bring quick results.

Surro Copper Shipment To Japan Set for March

By GORDON BELL

First shipment of copper concentrates to Japan from the Cowichan Copper Co. Ltd.'s leased Surro mine at Jordan River will be made next March, according to O. G. MacDonald, Cowichan president.

The shipment is initial delivery in connection with a contract with Mitsui and Co. which calls for the entire production of the mine for the next four years.

Cowichan has a 10-year lease on the property with an option to renew for two five-year periods from Consolidated Mining and Smelting. Funds to put the property into production were provided by Mitsui.

According to Mr. MacDonald revised estimates of development costs show that Cowichan will be able to mine here for $7.16 a ton and sell for $10.02 a ton for a net profit of $2.86 a ton based on 28 cents pound copper. The operation is expected to earn enough by the middle of 1963 to retire all debt and provide a $1 million surplus.

Mr. MacDonald also reports that both the 750-ton daily underground mill units will be in operation by the end of the year and brought up to full capacity during the first three months of 1962.

In a letter to shareholders of Cariboo Gold Quartz Mining Co. Ltd., president Dr. W. B. Burnett states that three replacement ore bodies have been discovered at its Wells gold mine.

He says that Cariboo will mine about 1,750 ounces monthly until the mine is in shape to take a definite increase.

Speaking to a group of New York security analysts, Pacific Petroleum Ltd. president John Geggod, promised the company would show a first-time profit for the year ending Feb. 28.

He added: "We expect to show an increasing profit from then on."

Revenues for the current year were estimated at about $27,000,000 compared with previous year's $18,000,000.

Although there are no restrictions on the company to prevent further financing, Mr. Geggod said, "our present plan is to live within our means."

Fort St. John Petroleum Ltd. has reported a drop in net income to $63,601 for the year ended May 31 compared with $78,973 for the previous year.

President M. J. Walton says the drop is largely attributable to lower revenue from the Pembina field in Alberta as a result of lost production during water-flooding operations.

Increased cash flow is predicted from higher well-head prices.

Continuing its integration of subsidiary interests, Canadian Petroleum Ltd. has announced that the assets of Western Leasolds will be acquired by Petrofina's wholly-owned subsidiary Canadian Fina Oils Ltd.

Canadian Petrofina owns 97 per cent of issued shares of Western Leasolds and will pay independent shareholders $6.46 a share. Book value of Western was fixed at $2.79 as of June 30 this year and sold in the $3.50 range prior to the announcement.

Before the sale can be completed, shareholders will approve a merger of Western and its wholly-owned subsidiary Northern Fina Oil Ltd.

Western Leasolds is the company created by Calgary lawyer Eric Harvie to manage the vast oil properties acquired prior to the war from British interests in lieu of legal fees. Mr. Harvie is reputed to have made a profit of more than $100 million from these lands.

placement ore bodies have been discovered at its Wells gold mine.

He says that Cariboo will mine about 1,750 ounces monthly until the mine is in shape to take a definite increase.

Speaking to a group of New York security analysts, Pacific Petroleum Ltd. president John Geggod, promised the company would show a first-time profit for the year ending Feb. 28.

He added: "We expect to show an increasing profit from then on."

Revenues for the current year were estimated at about $27,000,000 compared with previous year's $18,000,000.

Although there are no restrictions on the company to prevent further financing, Mr. Geggod said, "our present plan is to live within our means."

Fort St. John Petroleum Ltd. has reported a drop in net income to $63,601 for the year ended May 31 compared with $78,973 for the previous year.

President M. J. Walton says the drop is largely attributable to lower revenue from the Pembina field in Alberta as a result of lost production during water-flooding operations.

Increased cash flow is predicted from higher well-head prices.

Continuing its integration of subsidiary interests, Canadian Petroleum Ltd. has announced that the assets of Western Leasolds will be acquired by Petrofina's wholly-owned subsidiary Canadian Fina Oils Ltd.

Canadian Petrofina owns 97 per cent of issued shares of Western Leasolds and will pay independent shareholders $6.46 a share. Book value of Western was fixed at $2.79 as of June 30 this year and sold in the $3.50 range prior to the announcement.

Before the sale can be completed, shareholders will approve a merger of Western and its wholly-owned subsidiary Northern Fina Oil Ltd.

Western Leasolds is the company created by Calgary lawyer Eric Harvie to manage the vast oil properties acquired prior to the war from British interests in lieu of legal fees. Mr. Harvie is reputed to have made a profit of more than $100 million from these lands.

'EVERYTHING DEPENDS ON SOVIET'

LONDON (Reuters) — A British spokesman said today that a treaty banning nuclear tests "could be concluded very quickly" if Russia is willing to co-operate when three-power talks on the issue resume in Geneva next week.

"Everything depends on the Soviet attitude and we will see how the negotiations go next week," the foreign office spokesman told reporters. He said that parts of Tuesday's Soviet note to the United States and Britain agreeing to the resumption of talks were obscure "but we do not find any explicit conditions which we cannot accept."

GOVERNMENT CRACKS DOWN

Union Fines Members For Working Too Hard

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government cracked down today on a labor union for fining its own members for producing too much. The action was directed against Local 283 of the United Auto Workers based on charges filed by employees of the Wisconsin Motor Corp., West Allis, Wis., that the union is suing them to collect such fines. Under the union production plan, it was said, most employees of the firm were able to finish up a normal day's work two hours before scheduled quitting time. Stuart Rothman, general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board, announced he had directed a complaint against the union as a test legal case because similar charges of union-imposed production standards have "recently arisen with some frequency." The union was said to have originally imposed only token fines of $1 on over-producing members but lately to have adopted a policy of levying penalties of $50 to $100 in cases of "flagrant conduct unbecoming a union member" in added.

GUARANTEE DEMANDED WITH BUSES

Mayorality candidate J. Donald Smith today said a report of his advocacy that the city take over the red-link bus system failed to mention an important qualification. "I think the city should take over the buses for a 12-month trial—but only with a government guarantee against loss during the trial period. "I think the system can be made to break even but, if in 12 months, we found we could not do this then we would need a permanent guarantee from the government, at least until the present franchise expires. "Otherwise something else would have to be arranged, either have the government continue it or have a privately-operated system."

JFK, Adenauer Narrow Berlin Differences

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer were reported today to have agreed that the Western powers should hold further exploratory talks with Russia on a Berlin settlement.

They were also reported in agreement on basic Western policy positions to be taken if the talks lead to formal negotiations.

The U.S.-West German policy conference ends today with a final White House session. Adenauer is due to leave for Bonn early tonight.

A communique reflecting a high degree of agreement between the two leaders on Berlin issues was to be released in mid-afternoon. It was expected to stress Allied determination to protect West Berlin against Communist pressures and at the same time to keep the way open for a peaceful settlement with Russia.

TALKS WENT WELL

A joint German-U.S. statement said the White House talks had gone well.

"The talks involved an exhaustive and productive discussion of the current status of West Berlin and its relationship with the Western allies," the statement said.

West German Defence Minister Franz Josef Strauss told reporters Adenauer wants to negotiate on ending the Berlin dispute, and added: "We achieved a common basis for further talks on the ambassadorial level. We achieved unanimity for talks."

The comment by Strauss coincided with information from other officials that Kennedy and Adenauer have greatly narrowed their differences over Berlin issues.

Adenauer and Kennedy also spent considerable time Tuesday afternoon discussing the war dangers which could result if negotiations with Russia fail to produce a settlement.

They agreed, it is understood, that if Russia is unwilling to strike a bargain which respects basic Western rights in Berlin, as well as rights of access to the city from West Germany, then the dangers will have to be faced. They discussed the need for further strengthening of NATO military forces in Europe, and Adenauer presented his view that NATO needs a nuclear weapons force under its own command.

RUST FOUND IN FUEL LINE AFTER CRASH

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)—A civil aeronautics board engineer said Tuesday rust was found in the fuel system of an Imperial Airlines Constellation which crashed here Nov. 8 killing 77 persons.

Frank A. Taylor, an engineer-technician for CAB's bureau of air safety, said the rust was found in the fuel nozzles of the plane's four engines. It was also found in the fuel filters of the two engines that failed before the plane attempted an emergency landing at Byrd Airport.

Taylor testified before a four-member CAB team seeking to determine the probable cause of the crash in which 74 young army recruits and three of the chartered plane's five crew members died.

Taylor said a third engine had an overheated bearing.

CITY ROBBERY

Light Term To Avert Prison Birth

A young couple—the wife pregnant—received jail terms in Saanich police court Tuesday for theft with violence of a car and $1 from a visiting Vancouver businessman Nov. 9.

Ernest Falconer was sentenced to 18 months in prison for his part in the early morning incident and his wife, Laurie, received a four-month term.

AT KNIFE POINT

The couple admitted stealing the car from Brian Whitworth, Vancouver, after he had stopped to give them a lift about 2 a.m. Nov. 9. The car owner told police he was forced out of the car at knife-point.

In an earlier hearing police said they did not find a knife when the couple was arrested a few hours later.

After receiving a probation report on the defendants, Magistrate William Ostler said he was satisfied no knife was used although the victim was led to believe there was a knife.

'I'LL BE LENIENT'

"A previous conviction—although unrelated—is an indication of your completely irresponsible behavior," he said to the man.

The wife, he said, was "at least a full partner."

"I am taking into consideration the fact that you are with child," he told her. "The child will have enough strikes against it as it is."

"So for that, and that only, I will be lenient."

U.S. Expert Probes Canada's Ballet Problems

OTTAWA (UPI)—George Balanchine, artistic director of the New York city ballet, has been hired by the Canada Council to survey ballet problems and requirements in this country, it was announced today.

A council statement said it was hoped that the use of Balanchine and other international experts would "point the way out of difficulties which seem almost insoluble." The council said it was concerned about the problems of Canadian ballet and the increasing demands being made on its resources.

who can be a dentist?

It takes a special man or woman to meet the challenge of a dental career. He must be willing to spend long hours, both in training and every day after he receives his doctor's degree. He must have sound judgment sense, and a physical dexterity to perform the tasks required of him. And he must have a sincere sympathy for, and urge to help, his fellow man.

This is the dentist's lifetime duty: the care and protection of his community. And from his community, he will enjoy the rewards of his efforts: the satisfaction of healing, recognition by his neighbors, patients, and fellow doctors, and the opportunity to help more and more people as time goes on.

British Columbia needs dentists—needs the kind of man who will give his time and service to caring for others. Are you able to meet the challenge—and willing? Then write for our pamphlet, Dentistry As A Career.

Forget the Spread, Eagle—Bud Grant Has It Pegged

By JACKIE PARKER
(Quarterback, Edmonton Eskimos)

I can sympathize with coach Bobby Dobbs and quarterback Eagle Day these hours as they work overtime in a desperate bid to find something that will "work" against Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

If it's any consolation, they aren't the only ones who have faced the same problem in recent years.

I know how it feels. I've had plenty of practice and, between you and me, it gets downright frustrating at times because everything you dream up, Winnipeg's Bud Grant seems to have an answer for.

This, of course, is just a round-about way of saying Blue Bombers are loaded defensively. And while the offensive boys get most of the credit, the defence is quite capable of looking after itself.

Going into the series I looked for Calgary's spread formation (which worked so well against us in the semi-finals) to do most of the damage. But, despite the tricky winds, Grant dropped the hint last Saturday he can stop the Calgary spread most every time they try it.

EASIER, OR ... ?

So that would seem to leave Dobbs, Day and company only one alternative for tonight's game—revert back to the offence that they used over the regular season and hope for the best.

In fact I'd suggest they have a better chance of completing more passes off their regular formation. They can run the same pass-cuts and Winnipeg's defence then would be forced to line up in a different, and possibly easier, formation.

MUST SOLVE CHARGE

However, if it is a good night you can look for Winnipeg's formidable offence to simply go out and try to overpower Calgary. They will in all probability try some of those dangerous passes off running fakes and use Lee Lewis and Gerry James to full advantage.

Then Grant has the pleasant problem of deciding which quarterback to use. And if the running game bogs down, I wouldn't be surprised to see the fine-passing Hal Ledyard in action.

This would relieve Ken Ploen for defensive duty and Day may find it difficult to connect when the alert former Iowa star is wandering around knocking down his passes and always in position for a key interception.

I, of course, have a special feeling for the men who do the blocking. But it is shared by all backs. We all know you can't win without those big boys knocking down the other people for you and opening up the holes for you to run through.

And it must be nice to play behind the likes of Cornell Piper, Frank Rigney, Gene Druzman and friends on the Winnipeg line.

Trying to move the ball against Winnipeg isn't Eagle's or my idea of an easy way to make a dollar.

Cowboys Won't Believe Bombers Can Keep It Up

WINNIPEG (CP)—Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Calgary Stampeders clash for the fifth time this season at 6:30 (PST) tonight, and if the oddsmakers are right it will be their last encounter.

Calgary finished third but upset the second-place Edmonton Eskimos, 27-26, in the two-game, total-points semi-final.

CLOUDY AND COLD

The question bothering Bobby Dobbs and Bombers' coach, Bud Grant the most is: What will be weather be?

The weatherman's reply early today was: Cloudy skies; temperatures about 25 degrees; a southerly wind at about 15 miles an hour. There was no immediate prospect of snow.

That meant a hard, but relatively fast field. Passing was expected to be an important part of each team's attack. The passing attack at Calgary Saturday was pretty well taken away by 25 to 40-mile-an-hour winds.

Bombers, winners of the best-of-three Western Football Conference final 14-1 last Saturday, are 14½-point favorites to take tonight's second contest.

BUCHANAN TO PLAY

But Calgary coach Bobby Dobbs said his players packed their bags for a five-day stay in Winnipeg. That means they expect to be around for a third game next Saturday afternoon.

Stampeders don't believe the Bombers can take five straight victories from them. Before the playoffs, Winnipeg beat Calgary 18-17, 23-6 and 42-7 as they rolled to a first-place finish.

Dobbs said that rookie Ed Buchanan will play in place of speedy Lovell Coleman, the dangerous pass receiver who suffered a pulled thigh muscle in the first game. Centre Dale Parsons suffered a groin injury and will see limited action, as will tackle George Hansen, the team's place-kicking expert, who re-injured an ankle.

Quarterback Eagle Day and corner linebacker John McMurry will take regular shifts with Charleyhorses.

GRANT MAKES CHANGES

Bombers are healthy. But Grant announced he will make two line-up changes—replacing linebacker Dave Burkholder with Garland Warren and substituting Ron Meadmore for Jack Bruzell.

Dobbs said the Stampeders likely will stick to normal football on the frozen turf of Winnipeg Stadium. They used the cleats in Calgary Saturday and found them to their liking. Bombers started with cleats Saturday, but half of the Winnipeg players switched to running shoes at halftime.

The field here was protected through a snowfall Tuesday by a tarpaulin. The club said the tarp would remain down until shortly before game time.

Calgary Pivots Back in Groove

Two veteran centres have finally shaken a slow start to again make Calgary Stampeders one of the Western Hockey League's most respected teams.

Sid Finney and Gordie Vejpava, who coach Alf Pike threatened to trade because they weren't producing earlier this season, figured prominently in the scoring as the Stampeders downed the hometown Los Angeles Blades 5-3 Tuesday night.

In the only other game, Edmonton Flyers increased their Northern Division lead to eight points by edging Vancouver Canucks 3-1 before 2,000 fans at Vancouver. Canucks are in the northern cellar.

Finney scored two goals and Vejpava one as Calgary dumped Los Angeles further into the Southern Division cellar. A crowd of 2,735 saw Calgary break a 2-2 second-period tie with three goals—two by Finney—in the final period.

DOROHAY SCORES

Lou Jankowski and Bert Fizzell scored other Calgary goals. Real Chevrolis, Gerry Goyer and Eddie Dorohoy answered for the Blades.

The win moved Calgary, last year's regular season champions, to within two points of second-place Seattle Totems. Calgary would have won by a larger margin had it not been for the fine job by goalie Marcel Pelletier, who stopped 33 shots against 30 for Calgary's Ed Babluk.

Pelletier was removed in the closing minutes of the game and Finney scored into an empty net.

PENALTY COSTLY

There was only one penalty in the game, a costly one for Los Angeles.

While Blades' defenceman Jean Marc Picard was off the ice, Jankowski got the puck from Finney and John Kosinac and scored to put Calgary temporarily ahead in the second period.

Meanwhile, Edmonton used a brilliant performance by goaltender Hank Bassen and third-period goals by Len Haley and Warren Hynes to defeat Vancouver.

Bassen, playing with Edmonton on loan from Detroit Red Wings of the National League, stopped 36 shots as Flyers won their 12th game in 16 starts.

ONE FOR HOLMES

Chuck Holmes scored Edmonton's other goal while Ron Hutchinson connected for Vancouver.

Haley scored the winning goal at 6:35 of the final period.

Joe Iannarelli's baby Bruins are starting to build up their muscles.

Esquimalt's junior hockey team, heading for its second exhibition start Tuesday, today announced that it has acquired the services of two new players.

"Both are going to give us more strength," says Iannarelli.

The new players are forward Gord Morris, via Navy, and defenceman Jim O'Neill, via Army.

Both are expected to play Tuesday when the Bruins make their second start of the year against Nanaimo. The same two teams played to a 4-4 tie at Esquimalt's Sports Centre last week.

Bruins also have two other exhibition games in the fire. The club is tentatively billed to play at New Westminster on Dec. 1 and in Chilliwack on Dec. 2.

SPORTS DIARY

By JIMMY CANNON

NEW YORK—This past season of baseball belongs to Roger Maris. It is a year that will glitter in the archives and, afterwards, baseball people will neglect to explain it is 1961 when they kill time in small talk. It will become the year Maris hit 61.

All other achievements are stunted by this spectacular feat. It is not a small matter that Whitey Ford won 25 games as a pitcher but what Maris accomplished is thrillingly definitive. It is the great record Ruth held for so long and it is still his. He will be honored in recollection no matter how many other people hit.

The home run is the most important act a ball player can perform for his team. It is total success. He didn't get up to Ruth but he hit 59 in 154 games when he needed 60 but that's closer than anyone ever got. But in the first season they played 162 games he made 61 and that stands. It's not his fault that the schedule was expanded. No one consulted him about that. Everyone else in the league had the same shot.

There will be no attempt by me to ridicule what Maris did. But Mickey Mantle was the most valuable player in the American League. It is difficult to prove and Maris has a fine case. What Maris did never occurred before and that he has going for him. You must be familiar with the Yankees and ride the planes with them to realize what Mantle is on that ball club.

Envious Oldtimers Worked on Maris

The envious worked on Maris, especially the old-timers who were defending their generation. They denounced him because he hit only 269 which isn't a respectable average for a man who must be regarded as one of the great ones. In some ways, Maris is a freak.

He was irritated by this attitude, and he defended his position with a cranky eloquence. It doesn't matter, he said, who did it or how they did it. If a man batting 300 swings correctly 61 times in 154 games then he was entitled to be known as the greatest home-run hitter. You can't knock that down.

It was, in a way, the work of a soloist. This doesn't mean Maris held back some of what he had from the team and used it for selfish purposes. If that is so, then Babe Ruth didn't really help the Yankees when he played for them and you know that's a lie. He won games for them with the home run and he stepped on the plate for a run 132 times, exactly the same number as Mantle.

The difference between them is what a baseball team is. It is 25 players, manager, coaches, trainer, road secretary, bat boy and clubhouse attendants. But always, no matter how balanced the skills, some men are more important than the others.

You can't decide it out by declaiming Maris hit 61 home runs and Mantle hit only 54. It can't be explained by noting that Mantle's batting average was .317 and Maris .269. It is more than that and what it is exists in the other people on the team.

Some players, who were Maris cronies, were pulling for him. But the majority and that includes Ralph Houk, the manager, were Mantle's partisans. It wasn't a matter of personality. Neither uses it dramatically and they ran together during the season and, for a while, lived in the same apartment.

What separated them is what Mantle meant to this team. He was their most valuable player and they accepted it and no one quarrelled with it. He was the guy who moved the ball club and they depended on him for that.

They were excited by him and they responded to him. In this season, after a long disappointment, I think Mantle found true greatness as a ball player. He was to the Yankees what Joe DiMaggio used to be and there wasn't any doubt about it. It's been 10 years coming.

The knowledge they have of the pain he endures has something to do with it. They understand he hurts most of the time and his right leg is wrapped in a surgical stocking. He plays, as they all do, for wages and you are paid next year for what you did this one. But it is beyond that and he, like DiMaggio, declines to stunt with it. He pushes by the agony and holds it in and plays.

Mantle Means the Most to Yankees

You can only measure a man's courage according to the traditions of his field. Some suffer with grace that would flatter a martyr and football players take more. But Mantle is a baseball player and, crippled since the beginning, he has maintained an obedience to a code that might be considered noble if he toiled in a more dignified crusade than baseball.

The worth of Mantle was defined in the World Series. He had been operated on and he caused himself pain every time he moved. But he insisted he could play and hit a ball that should have been a double. So labored was his stride Houk had to take him out of the game immediately after he limped to first base. But the Yankees said this inconsequential base hit aroused them out of their stupor of mediocrity.

It was Mantle who gave them back what they needed, although the Cincinnati players would explain that Maris' home run in the Saturday game turned it all around. There is no reason to call the cops because Maris for the second consecutive season is officially the Most Valuable Player in the American League. The year of 1961 is his monument. But, as far as the Yankees are concerned, Mantle is the guy who meant the most to them. I agree.

ROBINSON MOST VALUABLE

All But One Voter Picked Cincy Ace

BOSTON (AP) — Frank Robinson, Cincinnati's lusty, hitting outfielder who back-boned the Reds to their first pennant in 21 years last season, today was named the National League's most valuable player of 1961.

Robinson gained all but one of 16 first-place votes.

Robinson polled 219 of a possible 224 points. Far back in second place with 117 points was San Francisco Giants' Orlando Cepeda.

Cincinnati outfielder Vada Pinson was third with 104 points. Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh Pirates was fourth.

Robinson, the league's outstanding rookie when he broke in with the Redlegs in 1956, batted .323 over the 1961 season, hitting 37 homers, driving in 124 runs and stealing 22 bases.

A late-season slump cost him any chance he had of leading the senior loop in home runs or RBI. Cepeda was the pace-setter in both departments with 46 homers and 142 RBI.

Pinson was third with 104 points. Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh Pirates was fourth.

VIKING VIEWS

By LES MILLIN

"Winningest sport on the campus" is the usual way to refer to ice hockey these days, and there is no sign that the winning streak is going to end.

Vikings moved into first place with a 4-3 thriller over Army last Friday night, making it a win over every other club in the four-team Esquimalt and District Hockey League, and spinning their skein of victories to four straight.

A 10-minute donnybrook in the third period showed just how seriously fans both on the campus and off take the newest college sport.

Ice hockey is the only sport to attract a large number of student fans so far this year, although some competition from Viking basketball is expected once the senior hoopers begin their exhibition schedule on December 1.

That first Friday in December promises to pose colleagues quite a problem.

Besides being a regular hockey night, it is also the scheduled evening for a clash between the Viking basketball squad and the Everett Junior College Trojans, a team from south of the line, but this in itself is not a problem.

What compounds the problem is that December 1 is the second night of a college faculty presentation of Shakespeare's play Othello, which students are recommended to attend.

It promises to be an interesting night.

We received a letter this week telling us that Vancouver is not, and never has been, called Gastown, a piece of nomenclature which cropped up briefly in this space last week.

Check your facts, sir. The Encyclopedia Canadiana under "Vancouver" talks about "the popular name of this settlement . . . Gastown," and the word is certainly in current use around Victoria College.

Allegations made in the sports pages of a local daily newspaper that Brian Little, president of Victoria College's student council, might not do too well in cross-country race held Saturday were dramatically disproved when Little sprinted in at least half a mile ahead of the field, only to collapse from exhaustion before breasting the tape.

This fate was also shared by Wick Wilson, the other half of the two-man council team, who was Little's running mate.

Their glory was somewhat dimmed by the protests of other runners, who claimed Little and Wilson had been running last when they were picked up in a car and transported past runners and lead car to a point well ahead of the pack and conveniently close to the finish line.

"I don't know how these ugly rumors start," said a student's council spokesman innocently.

Drug Ban May Delay Opening

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Florida State Racing Commission Tuesday reaffirmed its rule banning the use of the controversial drug, butazolidin, and horsemen threatened not to enter their thoroughbreds for Tropical Park's opening Thursday.

Following a conference with

H. O. Simmons, president of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association, the commission issued a statement saying its rule banning the use of butazolidin will remain in effect pending a public hearing Dec. 1.

Informed of the action, Simmons said he did not believe horsemen would make entries today for the start of Florida's thoroughbred racing season Thanksgiving Day.

"The horsemen have said they will not run if butazolidin is not allowed, and I believe they will stick to that decision," Simmons said.

The commission said it placed itself in line with "a greater majority of the racing commissions of other states and Canada in adopting the National Association of State Racing Commission's rule banning the use of medication which affects the condition of horses, including butazolidin."

The immediate effect of the drug is as a pain-killer. The controversy centres around whether a horse which could not run effectively without a pain killer should be allowed to race if running might aggravate the injury.

Fort Garry Pack of Lions Packs a Convincing Roar

British Columbia Lions never quite got around to scaring many people in the Western Conference with their oft-threatened roar, but there is one group of Lions in Canadian football that has been roaring loud and clear in the past few years.

They are the Fort Garry Lions, a bunch of eager young men, who battle Oak Bay Farmers for the "Little Grey Cup" Saturday at Macdonald Park in the first official western Canada juvenile football championship.

And if reputation and records mean anything, Farmers are in for a rugged afternoon.

The records back up coach Gary Hobson when he describes his Lions as an effective mixture of brains and brawn.

Over the past two seasons—the only two in which the juvenile Lions have been in operation—Hobson has led his team to two Manitoba titles. During that span, the club has fashioned a record of 23 victories, one loss and one draw.

Since then the loss has been avenged, thrice over.

The defeat was suffered at the hands of West End Rams, powerhouse of the Manitoba league until the Lions came along. It was an 8-1 decision early this season.

Since then the loss has been avenged, thrice over.

Success is nothing new to Hobson. Named head coach of the bantam squad when the Fort Garry Lions Football Club was formed six years ago, he has celebrated 54 victories and two ties in 58 games.

Hobson, moving up through bantam, midget and juvenile ranks with that first team, has 12 of the original bantams with the current juvenile club.

FAMILY SWEEP

Those 12 will be over the juvenile age limit of 19 next year but the coach shouldn't be worried about new recruits.

In addition to the provincial juvenile championship, the Lions this season captured the Winnipeg bantam title and midget provincial crown.

Hobson points with pride to the fact that 22 of his 36 players are university students.

Seven attend high school and the other seven have steady jobs. Twenty-one have come up through the midget Lions.

All but seven are natives of Fort Garry, a suburb of Winnipeg.

Most effective performer with the Lions is probably Howie Goss, a 180-pounder who adds an "iron man" touch to his chores by working both as an offensive centre and interior linebacker anchoring the offensive line at centre and working as linebacker on defence.

Goss was named the league's most valuable player. Six other league all-stars grace the Lion roster—quarterback John Poustie, quarterback Jack James, safety Roger Weyman, linebacker Gerry Mercer, defensive half Gary Solundson and coach Hobson.

FANS COMING, TOO!

Although permitted to dress only 30 players Saturday, Lions are bringing all 36 or their roster. Travelling with the club as it left Winnipeg today were about 20 fans.

Farmers, who won the Vancouver Island title last Sunday with a 15-7 victory over Nanaimo Redmen, will go into the cup clash without the services of their ace halfback, Terry Cox, who scored 71 points this season, suffered a fractured ankle in the Island final.

Defensive tackle Dave Gaunt is listed as a doubtful starter and a few other Oak Bay players are nursing injuries but Farmers figure they can still assemble enough brains and brawn to trip the Lions.

The cup clash is shaping up as a colorful affair that will be attended by Lieutenant Governor George Pearkes and Mayor Percy Scurrell, who will combine talents in opening kickoff ceremonies.

Among others scheduled to assist in ceremonies are B.C. Lions players Tom Hinton and Pat Clardige.

Tickets for the game are available at Eaton's and Hocking & Forbes.

New Season Starts For Plateau Skiers

Skiers ushered in a new season last weekend at Forbidden Plateau, going through their paces on about two feet of snow on upper slopes above the lodge.

It is hoped that a good fall of new snow will cover the lower slopes in the vicinity of the ski tow by the coming weekend.

SOLUTION FRIDAY

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Beautiful teenager Pamela Tiffin, the newest movie Cinderella, has some startling tales to tell about how New York's wealthy, aging wolves still try to ensnare young out-of-town girls just like in those lurid books. Pamela's father and mother, here from Chicago, helped her spot certain villains. "And," Pamela told the B.W. and me at 21, after a premiere of "Summer and Smoke" at the DeMille, "I'd like to add that there was nothing to any of those rumors linking Jose Ferrer and me in Texas when we were doing 'State Fair'. Mr. Ferrer was a perfect gentleman and we were never together except under camera lights."

George Gobel was sitting around in his shorts in his dressing-room at "Let It Ride" when there was a rap at the door. "It's your wife," a voice said. George said, "Well, come on in!" In walked attractive Jeff

Donnell, now Mrs. John Bricker, of San Francisco, who played his wife on TV and is here again for TV. "Kwamina," the courageous musical about Africa, just closed, will be a $400,000-and-up casualty. Jackie Gleason got a virus and left a "Requiem for a Heavyweight" party at Stillman's Gym, which he ostensibly hosted, long before his guests left. "Bing Crosby was saying at 21 that he enjoys Bob Hope's cracks about his fatherhood, wherein Bob says: 'Scientists are studying the results. I wouldn't believe it till I read it in the Medical Journal.' Asked where Bing is, Bob says, 'Oh, he's resting up from his seventh spectacular.'"

A spider sat down on the bar in a cafe. The bartender said, "Hey, we got a new drink named for you!" The spider said, "Yeah, what's its name?" The bartender said, "The Spider." The spider said, "You're wrong, fellah. My name's Irving." Paramount's filming "Hey, Let's Twist" at the Peppermint Lounge, and Columbia's rushing "Twist Around the Clock" ... Averill Harriman celebrated his 70th birthday.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL ... Anthony Quinn and David Susskind'll follow their "Requiem for a Heavyweight" with a film in Spain ... Joe E. Lewis' famed comedy writer, Eli Basse, will hold an exhibit of his paintings and not a laugh in any of 'em ... Brigitte Bardot's latest escort is a read-headed Britisher, her latest Paris hangout is Le Pescadore.

Alfred Drake, now starring in "Kean," has begun writing a book ... Rogers Hornsby'll call his autobiography "My War With Baseball" ... Author Rod Sterling's side-tracking everything else to write a political play ... Lillian Reis, whose Phila. trial resulted in a hung jury, is now asking $1,500 for a weekend for her cafe act. Actress Kim Hunter, now in "Write Me a Murder," will record an RCA-Victor album of songs for tots ... EARL'S PEARLS: Any husband who asks his wife's opinion on any subject just hasn't been listening.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Ernie Kovacs reports his neighbor has memorized 4,000 phone numbers: "Unfortunately, she can't remember the names that go with them."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Suggested simile: "As indignant as a woman whose laundry lost her very best towel." —Hugh Allen.

Most people work harder today to pay taxes than they once did to earn a living. That's earl, brother.

Another Man Involved With Yacht Skipper?

MIAMI (UPI)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation revealed today it is following up the mystery sinking of the ketch Bluebelle on the remote possibility skipper Julian A.

Harvey had a criminal co-conspirator not aboard the doomed sailboat.

MYSTERY LETTER

In another development, the owner of the Bluebelle, Harold S. Pegg of Hollywood, Fla., reported Tuesday night he had received a registered letter from Harvey, written from Bimini in the Bahamas apparently while the Bluebelle was on its last cruise. Pegg said he had not opened the letter but would take it to the Coast Guard today to open. He said he had no idea what it contained.

Harvey committed suicide last Friday after Terry Jo Duperrault, 11, the only survivor of a five-member Green Bay, Wis., family was found alive in a tiny lifeboat. Her parents and brother and sister died, as did Harvey's wife, Mary Dene.

Terry Jo told the Coast Guard she saw Harvey abandon the ship, leaving her on the bloodstained deck and the bodies of her mother and brother in the cabin below.

The Coast Guard said it believed the child, that there had been a mass murder aboard the 60-foot ketch.

WHAT MOTIVE?

The big question was why—what could have been Harvey's motive?

The FBI, it was learned, has not ruled out the possibility that Harvey never intended to be recovered by a merchant ship, but instead might have arranged to rendezvous with another small boat at an exact latitude and longitude and a precise time after scuttling the Bluebelle the night of Sunday, Nov. 12.

Harvey took out a $50,000 life insurance policy on himself with the Travelers Insurance Co. last September. It had a double indemnity clause which would have made the policy worth $100,000 in case of accidental death.

The beneficiaries of Harvey's policy were listed as his wife and son Lance, 13, by a former wife.

The retired air force lieutenant-colonel also took out a $20,000 double indemnity policy on his bride of three and one-half months. The beneficiaries of this policy were not immediately known.

One of the things the FBI is investigating is this insurance angle. If Harvey alone was criminally responsible and the FBI establishes that fact to its satisfaction, it will drop the case. But it is still studying information about whether one or more other persons might have been involved.

ASSUMED NAME

This theory goes farther to assume the possibility that Harvey intended to be rescued by a co-conspirator and go into hiding. It was noted that when he checked into the Miami Hotel in which he killed himself it was under the assumed name James Munroe.

Harvey had lost two other vessels and collected on both—$14,000 for the sailboat Torbatt lost in Chesapeake Bay and $40,000 on the racing sloop, Valiant, which sank off Cuba.

But the Bluebelle, while insured for $25,000, was not his and he would not have gained damages for her loss.

REINSTATEMENT of Dr. John Bodkin Adams, 62-year-old British physician who was acquitted in 1957 at a trial for the murder of an elderly widow by overdoses of drugs, was announced Tuesday by the British general medical council.

Adams was barred from practice following conviction on 14 charges involving forgery of national health prescriptions, making false statements on cremation certificates and failing to keep a drug register. He told the council he wanted to "expunge the wrongs" he had done and rehabilitate himself.

Arms Proposal Backed

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The United Nations political committee Tuesday approved by acclamation an Indian proposal urging the United States and the Soviet Union to reach agreement on the makeup of a negotiating body on disarmament.

'Work Harder, Faster' Cuban Workers Urged

HAVANA (Reuters)—Cuban workers are being exhorted in a barrage of speeches, broadcasts and posters to work harder and faster.

"Outmoded" bonuses and wage incentives have been replaced by competitions between factories within an industry.

The workers are told that they are playing their part in increasing national production by fulfilling "norms" work targets under a four-year industrialization plan.

Those who exceed their personal norms are offered free holidays at once—costly Cuban tourist resorts.

The emphasis of posters, loudspeakers, "solidarity meetings," the press, radio and television is relentlessly focused upon the new worker

CRUDE CARDS FOUND

Mooney Charges 'Smear Tactics'

Ald. M. H. Mooney Tuesday night charged he was the target of smear tactics even though he hasn't yet made up his mind whether he will run for mayor.

He was referring to crudely stamped cards found on the floor in City Hall which said "Ald. Mooney, Businessmen's Puppet."

"It is a smear of the lowest type," said Ald. Mooney. "Somebody is trying to influence the people. They may be afraid."

"I will not be dictated to by big business or a combine—and if rumors are true, there is most definitely a combine at work, promoting a civic slate."

Meanwhile, Ald. J. L. W. McLean announced he would seek re-election to a second term on council.

'KEPT PROMISE'

"Two years ago, after being elected to council, I made this promise—to work for the welfare of all citizens to the best of my abilities and with the principles, conscience and positive approach of an unashamed Christian," he said.

"This promise, I have kept. I have gained much knowledge of, and experience in, municipal government and have attended two international conferences. As a result I now am better equipped to serve the community than I was two years ago."

ARSENAL IN HEARSE

BELFAST (AP)—Police in the Irish Republic swooped down on a funeral Tuesday. Inside the hearse, instead of a coffin with a corpse, they found a chest of ammunition and rifles. The discovery was made in the Carrick-on-Shannon district of County Leitrim. The hearse was headed for the Northern Ireland border, police said.

They're Acting Says Strachan

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan Tuesday branded public hearings on the Columbia River power project "a charade" at which two government agencies were protecting each other from pointed questioning.

Mr. Strachan said the B.C. Power Commission and water rights branch were also protecting government policy.

He made the statement to reporters shortly before he was thwarted in an attempt to make it publicly before the hearings in the Empress Hotel.

AT CONCLUSION
He was told by water rights comptroller A. F. Paget, chairman at the hearings, that he might be allowed to make a statement at the conclusion of proceedings, but that it was not proper for anyone to make statements at that time who was not directly involved.

Mr. Strachan replied that he did not expect to be able to attend at the wind-up today.

The opposition leader charged that the B.C. Power Commission was being protected against questioning by Mr. Paget, head of the water rights branch.

Questions about costs, power markets and alternative schemes of developing the river had been blocked as "irrelevant."

"UNREALITY"
At the same time both the power commission and Mr. Paget were protecting the B.C. government's announced power policy of selling the Columbia downstream benefits to the U.S.

"I had a complete feeling of unreality in there," said Mr. Strachan.

It was "a sort of charade."

"The acting of these parts will make no difference to the final situation."

"COMPLETELY DEAD"
"As far as I can see development on the Columbia River is now dead—completely dead."

This was because B.C. wanted to sell the benefits and also to sell power made in B.C. from Columbia and Peace River dams, said Mr. Strachan.

"No federal government worthy of the name of govern-

New Treaty Discussion 'Irrelevant'

Discussion of renegotiating the Columbia River treaty was ruled "irrelevant" at public hearings here Tuesday.

Vancouver consulting engineer F. J. Bartholomew was trying to secure an admission from B.C. Power Commission chairman Dr. H. L. Keenleyside that renegotiation was impossible.

Transcript from earlier hearings in the Kootenays read Tuesday showed that Dr. Keenleyside indicated it might be difficult but not impossible to renegotiate and he would not elaborate it.

Mr. Bartholomew's contention was that the Arrow Lakes dam was not essential to the overall project, and it should be scrapped.

He said in renegotiating the treaty on this issue, the U.S. would be prepared to make new "quite substantial" concessions in order to get a larger share of downstream benefits.

But power commission spokesmen and Mr. Paget agreed that the question of the merits of the treaty and possible renegotiation were not within the terms of the hearing.

ment of Canada could possibly be party to such an arrangement.

Mr. Strachan was asked about reports that most of the federal cabinet would agree to B.C.'s plan.

"This then means the federal government will be lumped with the Soviets in selling out B.C. and putting a ceiling on B.C.'s future," he replied.

Questioning Fatuous Says Hydro Chairman

Persistent haggling over details of the Columbia River power plan at public hearings here was described as "fatuous" Tuesday by B.C. Power Commission chairman Dr. H. L. Keenleyside.

He had sat through four and one-half hours of questioning and argument by Vancouver consultant F. J. Bartholomew who represented Arrow Lakes residents protesting construction of a High Arrow dam.

The specific point which finally brought out sharp words was Mr. Bartholomew's insistence on details of how much Alberta would pay for B.C. power, and how much present rates are in that province.

"I suggest this is becoming a bit fatuous," said Dr. Keenleyside.

QUESTIONED CLOSELY
But then Mr. Bartholomew questioned him closely about replacement of the steam generating power plant at Whatshan when the Columbia project goes ahead.

He said the Whatshan plant was valued at $7,000,000, yet only $3,000,000 write-off was allowed in estimates for the Columbia project.

"I suggest we shouldn't waste time. This is only a small element of the whole," said Dr. Keenleyside.

"NOT IMPORTANT"
Mr. Bartholomew said there was $4,000,000 apparently unaccounted for.

"Only $4,000,000? What's that? Not important?" he asked.

But when chairman A. F. Paget asked him what he meant, he didn't reply.

Another brief flareup occurred when Mr. Paget caught Revelstoke MLA George Hobbs passing a note to Mr. Bartholomew.

"You can't bring notes to witnesses on the stand. This is absolutely most improper procedure," said Mr. Paget.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan pointed out that he had seen notes passed to members of the B.C. Power Commission, who were witnesses, although they were not on the official "stand."

THREW IT AWAY
"I don't think he is a witness at the moment," he said to Mr. Bartholomew. "Isn't he cross-examining?"

"I don't know what he is," said Mr. Paget.

"Anyway I didn't read it," said Mr. Bartholomew, screwing up the paper from Mr. Hobbs and throwing it away.

Office Managers Moving Up

Creation of a new type of office manager, a top executive who will run the business office as a "command post" of his company, collecting, co-ordinating and correlating all the facts necessary to run the company, was forecast Tuesday night by Dr. James R. Taylor of Detroit, international president of the National Office Management Association.

Addressing the annual "Top Management" banquet of NOMA's Victoria chapter at the Net Loft, Dr. Taylor noted that while "prophets" had long been predicting the demise of the office manager as a result of the "business revolution" brought about by automation, his own belief was that office managers had a bigger role to play than ever before.

"New and better qualifications will be needed for the job," he said. "As the repetitive, routine decisions are eliminated by automation, more difficult and important decisions are left."

IN SPOTLIGHT
Dr. Taylor, who is a professor at the school of business administration of Wayne State University at Detroit, said the noticeable trend in business today is to place increasing responsibility on the administrative staff.

For some time the most important group in business was the financial organization, then the emphasis was placed on the sales force and after that it was the personnel department on which the spotlight was focused.

HIGHER POST
Now the challenge has been given to the administrative branch, he declared. The key man of the future, the chief co-ordinating officer, will be the office manager but with a higher post in the company organization.

"Despite the rapid growth of automation in business machines," Dr. Taylor claimed, "there is no substitute for intelligent judgment, inventiveness and resolution in the business office."

STOP MILITARISTS

German Treaty Vital

MONTREAL (CP) — Dr. Amasasp Aroutunian, Soviet ambassador to Canada, said today the absence of a German peace treaty makes it possible for West Germany to start a new war.

He told the McGill conference on world affairs at McGill University it is abnormal that after 16 years of victory there is no peace settlement with Germany.

"The absence of a German peace treaty makes it possible for the West German revanchists and militarists to prepare a new war, this time a nuclear war," he said.

"They (the West Germans) demand quite openly nuclear armament."

Dr. Aroutunian said Russia will do its utmost to ensure a peaceful solution of the German peace treaty issue and the status of West Berlin. "There are no international problems today, including the West Berlin issue, which are worth a devastating nuclear war and which cannot be solved by peaceful negotiation," he said.

Scurrah Dead Against Bus System Purchase

'Nothing But A Liability'

Mayor Percy Scurrah today warned Victoria to avoid taking over the transit system even if large inducements are offered.

"It's nothing but a liability any way you look at it," he said. "The experts lost $500,000 a year on it so how can amateurs expect to make it pay?"

Mayor Scurrah, who retires next month, refused to confirm or deny reports the government wanted to get rid of the system so badly it was offering it free and throwing in a substantial discount on the $660,000 purchase price for the B.C. Hydro Building too.

"I'm absolutely opposed to the city taking on those buses under any circumstances," he said. "If a discount was offered, the saving would be more than swallowed up by the losses in one year's operation of the buses."

The mayor pointed out that the current annual operating loss by the transit system would automatically dump five more mills on city taxpayers' bills every year.

"It's their (the government's) baby so let them keep it."

GET GUARANTEE

"If they sell the system to a private operator, that's all right—provided we can get a guarantee that the service will be maintained at least through the life of the present franchise which expires in 1967."

The mayor's statement followed those by the three mayoralty candidates which indicated that the city might wind up in the transit business next year no matter who is elected.

A adamant opposition to transfer of the bus system to the city also was voiced by Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow.

UP TO THEM

"The government bought that system and it's up to them to operate it."

"No municipal bus service on this continent pays its own way and if we took the offer we would be saddling our ratepayers with a huge liability," he said.

SUBSIDIES

Ald. Edgelow pointed out that the red-ink transit system was supported in the past by subsidies from the B.C. Electric's power operations and this same form of balance was available to the government since it took over BCE.

But if the city took the buses, it could only underwrite operating deficits by raising taxes each year.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. The standard gauge of American railroads is 4'8½". What or where was the origin of the gauge and what is the standard in England, France, Germany, and Russia? S.F.

A. The 4'8½" gauge is known as the "Stephenson gauge." The Killingworth Colliery track in England upon which George Stephenson ran his first locomotive had a gauge of 4'8", and the inventor built his engine to fit this track. The Stockton and Darlington Railway, upon which he persuaded the directors to run steam locomotives, had the track gauge widened to 4'8½" while the width of the locomotives remained shorter by half an inch to allow a certain amount of "play." During the earliest periods of railways, track widths differed widely due to the fact that the lines were unconnected. In England the gauge varied from 2 feet to 7 feet, and in the United States from 3 feet to 6 feet. However, standardization of gauge came in the 1860s when the necessities of freight haulage caused various track systems to be linked up for greater distances. At this time the U.S. Congress adopted the Stephenson gauge, and it has since gradually been adopted all over the North American continent, and in Europe due to British influence. French and German lines are of this width. Russian railways, however, have a gauge of 5 feet.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along with the name and address to "Ask the Times," Editor, Questions and Answers, 1100 Douglas Street, Victoria, B.C. The Times does not undertake to answer questions or legal problems. No return is attempted to put value on old letters, stamps or postage. These should be submitted to a dealer.

CHARTER MEETING FOLDS UP

A meeting to discuss the desirability of a city charter for Victoria has been cancelled because of lack of interest, a spokesman for Victoria Chamber of Commerce said today.

The meeting, organized by the Chamber's public affairs group, was to have been held at the Empress Hotel Thursday at 8 p.m.

Two experts from Vancouver had been engaged to address the meeting—Russell K. Baker, corporation counsel for Vancouver city, and Prof. Eric Todd, associate professor in the faculty of law at the University of British Columbia.

DISAPPOINTING

"All Chamber members were invited to come along and hear what these experts had to say about the value of having a city charter," the spokesman said.

"The response was so disappointing we decided it was impractical for us to bring them to Victoria."

In the general invitation to members, Ira Hill, chairman of the public affairs group, pointed out that Vancouver is the only city in B.C. to have its own charter.

Mr. Hill said the public affairs group had accepted the study of a city charter as one of its program objectives for this year.

Now it looks as if the study will be dropped.

Cloudy, Chilly But City Misses High Level Snow

Partly cloudy skies and chilly temperatures were predicted for tonight and Thursday by weatherman William Mackie. There will be widely scattered showers, he said, but they will be confined mainly to mountain areas. Rain will be mixed with snow at high levels.

Temperatures in sheltered areas will drop to 28 degrees tonight, but will not go below 35 degrees in areas where wind can keep the air moving. Maximum Thursday will be 45 degrees, and winds will be westerly at 15 miles per hour.

The Malahat was reported clear of snow following a fall on Monday and Tuesday, and all traffic was moving normally.

Stolen Goods Charge Dismissed In City Court

A charge of possession of goods knowing them to be stolen, against William D. Davis, no fixed address, was dismissed in city police court today because the Crown failed to prove the goods were in fact stolen.

Magistrate William Ostler told Davis he was dismissing the case solely because of the Crown's failure and not because he believed the accused man's story of buying the goods in question—a leather shaving kit—from "a man in a beer parlor."

"I've heard that story so frequently one would think that beer parlors are beginning to resemble bazaars," he said.

Underground Power Lines Elworthy Aim

A campaign to put all overhead power lines in Oak Bay underground will be waged by candidate Gordon Elworthy, who seeks the reeve'ship in municipal elections Dec. 7.

Coun. Elworthy said today new installation of overhead power lines in the Uplands is wrong.

"Everyone knows that wiring in the Uplands was to be all underground," Engineer Geoffrey White said the lines go through where they would not normally be seen from the streets and through undeveloped parts of the area.

"If elected," the candidate said, "I intend to work for a long range plan for the removal of all poles not only in the Uplands but throughout Oak Bay."

"Now that the B.C. Electric is government-owned, there should be no obstacle to this."

Cadets at Helm When Oriole Crosses Strait

A sea training cruise to Vancouver is planned for 30 officer cadets from the Canadian Services College, Royal Roads, this weekend.

The cadets will make the crossing in the training yacht HMCS Oriole and in two naval harborcraft.

En route, they will each have an opportunity to take the helm and will receive practical instruction in chart reading and navigation. The group will board the vessels at Cowichan Bay Saturday morning, arrive at Vancouver at 4 p.m., returning to Esquimalt at 5 p.m. Sunday.

Pat Bay Highway Relocation Goes Ahead

Highway diversion around Patricia Bay Airport, being built by McPhail's Construction Co. of Richmond on contract of $219,832, starts at intersection of Pat Bay Highway and Loehside Drive, will cross Beacon Avenue immediately east of SANSCHA Hall, then rejoin main road at Ardwell Road. Above view of 2.87-mile section was taken from Weiler Avenue.

Work has not yet started on runway extension at airport, sole reason for highway move, but tenders have been called for new radio equipment to assist aircraft landing in bad weather. Project is part of transport department's overall expansion plan at airport, and will cost about $15,000. (Times Photo by Irving Strickland.)

Fireman Shot In Buttock By Companion

Shot through the left buttock in a weekend hunting accident near Cobble Hill, Victoria fireman Stanley Gow, 3096 Balfour, today was reported in good condition at King's Daughters' Hospital in Duncan.

According to RCMP, the shot was fired by Gow's hunting companion, Lloyd Newton, of 991 Tulip, Victoria. It penetrated Gow's pocketbook, and the soft-nosed bullet made a large, tearing wound as it left the flesh.

The two were hunting Sunday in thick, underbrush just one-half mile from the Trans-Canada Highway. Gow left the car and Newton continued up the road, both planning to circle toward each other.

I'VE BEEN HIT

Police said Newton told them as he approached the rendezvous he saw a deer and fired his .303 rifle.

He then heard his companion shout, "I've been hit."

Newton took his injured friend to the hospital.

He was treated for shock and loss of blood, and although his left leg was reported numb, he could move his toes. It is expected recovery will be complete.

Shawnigan RCMP continued an investigation today, but said there was little likelihood a charge would be laid against Newton.

Wheels Stolen From Cars Outside Mill

Two employees of B.C. Forest Products found it a trifle hard to drive home Tuesday.

Thieves had removed the wheels from their cars. Jack Connor, 3066 Leigh Road, and Frank Kitto, co B.C. Forest Products, returned to the company parking lot in the Gorge Road-Manchester area at 4 p.m. to find the right front wheel gone from Mr. Connor's car and the two front ones stolen from Mr. Kitto's.

RANSACKED

During the night three residents of the 1500 block Montgomery and a visitor to the area had their cars ransacked but nothing was taken.

Police said none of the cars were locked.

They belonged to Mrs. Patricia Garner, 1544 Montgomery; Keith Olson, 1524 Montgomery; Dr. John Kravynoff, 1540 Montgomery, and A. Houston, Strathcona Hotel.

Mrs. Garner's car was at first reported stolen, but was later found on Lincoln Road.

SUBDUED FIRING STARTS THURSDAY

New 'Soft Shoe' Blanks To Tame Noisy Time Gun

The sound of the time gun at Work Point will be toned down, effective with the noon firing Thursday, it was announced today.

A statement by Lt.-Col. R. F. Bruce, commanding officer of Work Point barracks, said a modified type of blank round will be available as a result of investigation and recommendations submitted by army officials.

"An endeavor has been made to lessen the explosion, but at the same time keep it sufficiently loud to fulfill its mission," he said.

The gun is fired at noon and 9 p.m. Some residents of adjoining areas had complained the gun was too loud.

MONTE ROBERTS

Seated this week on the patio, the Sateve Post on my knees, I was reading text and pictures, with a feeling of vague unease. . . .

What was bothering me, I wondered, as I leafed through the glossy pages of this magazine?

Why, I asked myself, was a little giggling nagger tapping me on the back of the noggin as I read about Seattle's progress toward its Century 21 World Fair?

How could I be anything but happy, I asked myself, to learn how our friendly neighbor down Puget Sound way had fared the North American World Fair of this decade away from (boo!) New York?

After all, I told myself, I am reading this on November 21, 1961, and the Seattle things don't start until April 21.

Why should I be disturbed because I'll be Seattle in getting international publicity in a magazine with a million or two readers on both sides of several borders?

So I kept the magazine on my knees, and tried to ignore my unease, as I read about the crowd of inspired amateurs who, after their Century 21 whoop-de-do is over, will leave a $50,000,000 community centre as a permanent legacy to the citizens of their city.

After all, I told myself, Seattle doesn't even have an honest-to-Betsy, look-it-up-in-the-history-books, anniversary to celebrate.

So how come Seattle is getting all this publicity, and everybody is getting excited, when whatever it is Seattle is going to celebrate doesn't even start until April 21, 1962?

It was at this point the Sateve Post slipped off my knees, to be replaced by a no-longer vague feeling of unease. What do you know, I said to myself. There are rumors, I said, that a city about which I should know a thing or three has a legitimate reason for throwing a party in 1962.

This city, I reminded myself, is none other than the fairest of Them All—namely, Victoria, the capital of the Province of British Columbia, situated in Canada's left field bleachers.

Oh, ho, I said to myself, THIS is why the feeling of unease.

I am comparing, I told myself, the forward-looking, far-ranging efforts of the Seattle amateur celebration promoters with the (objectives withheld to protect the innocent) efforts of the Victoria celebration promoters.

Comparisons are odious, admittedly, but odious seems to be the definitive word here.

Or is it necessary to say something amelia?

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Conventions at the Empress Hotel are booked as far ahead as 1963, assistant manager Charles Moore said here today.

"Most of the 1968 bookings are tentative," said Mr. Moore, who has just returned from a tour of Washington, Oregon and California soliciting conventions for the hotel.

"We have about 45 tentative bookings for 1963 and around 60 conventions are lined up for 1962."

Tourist industry group of Victoria Chamber of Commerce meets Monday at 6:10 p.m. in the Terra Cotta Room of the Dominion Hotel to discuss the goodwill tour for next year, new projects and a survey of accommodation for the Centennial year and the expected tourist rush from Seattle's Century 21 Exposition.

Victoria Life Underwriters' Association will hold a public relations dinner Monday at 6 p.m. in the Sirocco Club with officers of banks, trust companies and other organizations as guests. A. G. F. Sutton, executive secretary of the joint committee for Easter seals and polio foundation, will show slides of the mainland summer camp and Naden swimming program. He will talk also on the Queen Elizabeth College for the Handicapped in Guildford, England.

Donald Gray, no fixed address, pleaded guilty in city police court today to theft of a power-drill pack valued at more than $50 and will appear in court Thursday for a probation report and sentence.

Police said Gray took the drill, valued at $81.90, from the T. Eaton Co. store Oct. 20.

Albert Chang, 2821 Douglas, a service station operator, appeared in city police court today on five charges of failing to file Social Service tax returns to the provincial government.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Invalids Forget Pains When They Look at These

By PENNY SAVER

Dear Sis: As I told you on the phone I went to see Uncle Bob. You can imagine how sorry he feels for himself, trussed up in bed with his leg in a cast! I felt pretty proud of myself when at the end of my visit he was laughing so heartily I was afraid he'd put his temperature up. Secret lay in the pack of playing cards I took along as a gift. They're designed to cheer up any one in the dumps for each card is decorated with a snappy cartoon, potent as any laughing gas.

There are 52 different cartoons and deck is well worth the $2.95 price tag when you see just how much fun they can bring to an invalid such as Uncle Bob.

If this has started your little brain box thinking along the line of Christmas gifts there's a similar pack at the same price that has "fishy" jokes decorating each card. I thought they'd be perfect for Dad to take along on his fishing trip to Brentwood.

I discovered a brand new item when browsing around town this morning that reminded me of Bette immediately I saw it. Remember how she's always losing her car and apartment keys? Well, this item is a smart chunky bracelet that comes complete with its own key ring. Colors of beads would match practically everything in anyone's wardrobe, having mosaic greens, golds and brick tones, interspersed with good-looking gold.

Bracelets are almost a "steal" at $1.95 and my crystal ball tells me that they're certain to catch on with the college and career girl set.

Don't forget to give me a ring whenever you have a minute. I'll be glad to let you know where to shop. Penny, EV 2-3131.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

'Please Pass the Proteins—' They're Essential for Good Health

An adequate protein intake is essential to good nutrition. Protein is so important because it contains the vital amino acids which have been called the body's building blocks.

These are necessary for the proper maintenance and repair of Lowman body tissues, for growth and for health. We hear much about high quality protein and low quality protein, about complete and incomplete protein. Actually, the quality of a protein food depends on the number of essential amino acids it contains.

Animal proteins are high quality proteins because they have the essential amino acids. However, plant proteins are also valuable. Vegetables, fruits, cereals, wheat legumes and corn, supply at least some of the essential amino acids, and each differs as to the essential amino acid it is lacking. Therefore, in this category variety is indicated.

According to most nutritionists a goodly supply of high protein food should be included in each day's menu, along with calories and minerals and vitamins from other classes of food. The potent animal proteins are meat, fish, eggs, poultry, milk and cheese. If your food intake is adequate and you eat a varied diet as suggested, your protein intake will not be a problem.

Sometimes, protein deficiency is due to other factors such as loss of blood, abnormalities in the gastrointestinal tract, chronic diarrhea, impaired digestion or assimilation, but the main culprit is a deficiency in dietary protein.

We know now that we must look to our habits in eating if we wish to maintain the best possible level of health and if we want to delay aging. If you would like to have my leaflet "Vitamin Defence," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 37. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

BACKACHE May be Warning

Backache is often caused by busy kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest or that tired-out and heavy-headed feeling may soon follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulates the kidneys to normal action. DEAR ABBY...

It All Depends, Dearie!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am almost 20 and have been having a disagreement with my mother. She doesn't want me to have anything to do with a certain neighbor man. He is 33, divorced, and has two children. All we do is sit on my front porch and talk, and I don't see anything wrong with that. I would rather sit and talk with him all evening than go on a date with any of the younger men I know. Mother is worried about "my reputation" and "gossip" and blah, blah, blah... but I don't care. Is there anything wrong with just talking?

LIKES TO TALK: DEAR LIKES: Not a thing. Unless he talks you into something.

DEAR ABBY: I am growing more and more worried over the fact that I can't seem to get married. I am a good-looking woman of 35, shapely, intelligent, kind, industrious, moral, healthy and vivacious. I don't want to boast, but I can't think of one desirable feminine characteristic that I don't possess. Nearly every man I go out with wants to marry me. But I don't want to marry them. Everyone who meets me is amazed that I have never been married. I want to be loved, and have children some day, but I have yet to meet the man I could feel that deeply about. I know, as the years pass, I won't have all these opportunities, and it saddens me. What is wrong with me?

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I had a rather heated argument with my daughter's fiancé over where to draw the line on invitations to their wedding dinner. We plan a very small dinner following the ceremony to which aunts and uncles (no cousins) will be invited. My daughter's maid of honor is from out of town (she is a college chum), and has requested that her fiancé be invited to the dinner. My husband and I see no reason why he shouldn't be, since this girl knows none of the relatives, and his presence would insure her a happy time. Our future son-in-law insists he is an outsider and, if he is invited to the dinner, we are obligated to invite all the cousins. There are about 50 cousins of all ages. Are we wrong?

UPSET: DEAR UPSET: You are not wrong. Tell your future son-in-law not to be so technical.

Young Girls Pledge Faith
With Others Around World

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Last Sunday afternoon in Oak Bay United Church, in the presence of families and friends, 300 members of Y-Teen groups, in the city and from Duncan and the Alberni, pledged themselves anew to work for and live by the ideals of the Young Women's Christian Association.

Wearing white skirts and navy blue sweaters and holding small white candles that were lighted in a chain movement from a large candle at the altar, the girls declared their purpose of embodying in their lives, now and in the future, Christian ideals and faith.

It was not only a local ceremony.

Y-Teen girls in every part of Canada and in other places in the world were taking part in similar services, with the avowed purpose of building a fellowship of women and girls of different races, ages, religious and social classes, that joined together to work in the thought and action of everyday life, makes life joyful and useful for everyone.

There was a candle service with symbolic candles in red, yellow, blue and white, lighted from the glowing flame of the large central candle, with its YWCA insignia.

The red candle symbolized the Y-Teen idea to be physically fit; the yellow candle, mentally alert; the blue candle, socially alive, and the white candle, spiritually awake.

As the ceremony concluded the young leader said:

"As each girl lights her candle, may she see in the radiance the symbol of the desire in her heart to be physically fit, mentally alert, socially alive and spiritually awake."

"We know the flame will be gone, but the light and warmth will go on with us wherever we may be. For the flame of this candle has not been extinguished, it has been consumed in the minds and hearts of each one of us, reminding us of the ideals to live richer, fuller and more worthwhile lives."

"To achieve these ends, be loyal to God, to your country, to your home and to your Y-Teens."

STIRRED EMOTIONS

The serious, intent faces; the soft voices speaking in unison, the flickering candles held in steady young hands and the promise in the words that were spoken, created a picture that stirred the emotions.

Tears were close to the surface in all grown-up eyes. Perhaps a few for our own lost youth, but mostly at thought of the obscure—but exciting—future that stretches ahead for those young girls who recited softly and in unison, the Y-Teen code song:

"To guard our minds and tongues from all unkindness, To keep our actions free from selfishness,

To claim as ours, ideals for Christian living, As Y-Teen girls, these things we would possess."

Greenwood-Moseley Vows
In Gordon United Church

Sandra Elaine Moseley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dale Moseley, 533 View Royal Avenue, exchanged wedding vows recently with John William Barry Greenwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Thomas Greenwood, 2815 Jacklin Road, in Gordon United Church, Langford. Rev Gordon Dangerefield officiated.

Baskets of pink and white chrysanthemums decorated the church for the occasion. Mrs. Laurie Davidson provided the music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length lace-over-satin gown that featured a white satin front skirt panel and bodice with scalloped neckline. Her elbow-length veil of illusion net was held by a pearl and iridescent sequin coronet. She carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Bridesmaid Mrs. W. Antrobus chose a ballerina-length dress in a fuchsia shade and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. Junior bridesmaids, Doreen and Mary Moseley, sisters of the bride, wore pink satin gowns and carried colonial bouquets of pink carnations and roses.

Best man was James Greenwood, brother of the groom, and ushers were Peter and Gary Moseley, brothers of the bride.

At a reception in Chez Marcel the bride's table was centred with a pink and white cake set in tulle flanked by

Marks American
Thanksgiving

Friends from "across the border" will feel very much at home at the Empress Hotel on Thursday evening when they attend a special all-American Thanksgiving Day smorgasbord. Decorations will be in harvest theme, featuring huge wheat sheaths, colorful pumpkins, gourds and fall leaves. Masses of brilliant chrysanthemums will complete the decor.

The entrance to the dining room will be decorated with Canadian and American flags. To cope with the expected demand for hot roast turkey and "all the trimmings," two attendants in crisp white chef uniforms will be on duty at two stations. Turkeys are all fresh Island birds. Traditional pumpkin pies will form the "piece de resistance" on the dessert table. Conventional smorgasbord delicacies will also be available.

First Wedding in New Church

First wedding in the new Gordon Head United Church took place Saturday evening, when Phyllis Irma Hopkins was married to William Leonard Wansbrough. Rev. M. Alexander officiated.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Hopkins, 4435 Torquay Drive, and Mr. and Mrs. G. I. Wansbrough, 3911 Holland Avenue. The church was decorated with baskets of pink and white chrysanthemums. Mrs. F. Allan was organist.

Miss Hopkins was given in marriage by her father. She wore a French satin rose design brocade gown that featured a floor-length hooped skirt and a bodice with jeweled neckline and lily point sleeves. She wore a crystal necklace, gift of the groom. The waist-length veil of tulle was held by a crown trimmed with orange blossoms and she carried a lace-covered Bible topped with pink sweetheart roses and white chrysanthemums.

The maid of honor, Miss Maye Lum, and senior bridesmaid, Miss Marion Dempster, chose pink peau de sole faille dresses with white velvet cummerbunds and white velvet headpieces.

Junior bridesmaid, Miss Margaret Hopkins, and flower girl, Karen Keller, wore dresses identical to those of the senior attendants, trimmed with white lace and with flowered headpieces.

All attendants carried colonial bouquets of white chrysanthemums centred with pink roses.

Best man was Edmund Keller and ushers were Hugh Murray and Tom Hopkins.

Reception was held in Gordon Head Community Hall which was decorated with cedar boughs and pink and white flowers. Head table was centred with a three-tier cake, topped with doves and bells and flanked by feathered candle holders and silver bud vases holding pink roses. J.

McAulay proposed the toast to the bride.

Miss Patricia McDowell and Miss Hilary Gallagher entertained guests with the Highland fling during the reception.

For her travelling costume Mrs. Wansbrough chose a liberty silk printed dress in bronze, a bronze hat, white mohair coat and black accessories. Her corsage was bronze Taisman roses.

On return from a honeymoon trip to Washington and Oregon the newlyweds will live at 976 Cloverdale Avenue.

IS ONE FACE CREAM "JUST AS GOOD" AS ANOTHER?

True, lots of creams are similar in doing a surface job only. But if you need in for a treatment cream that will effectively halt early-aging signs such as crow's feet, little lines, flakiness, then POND'S DRY SKIN CREAM is the answer. This famous cream, now with Allantoin, goes to work in just 10 minutes to repair skin robbed of natural moisture. Allantoin floats off lifeless surface skin cells... speeds penetration of Pond's rich moisturized lanolin to thirsty tissues far below. Almost overnight, skin dried out by harsh weather, indoor heat, low-fat diets, regains its softness, smoothness... looks young again! Use POND'S DRY SKIN CREAM regularly. In jar or tube, wherever cosmetics are sold.

SPARKED BY EARLY SALE

Artist's Fears Turned to Pride

BY NORMAN CRIBBENS

Two years ago when an illness prevented him from going outdoors, a retired Victoria businessman took up painting for the first time in his life. He did so well that, three months afterward, his pictures were exhibited at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel and one of them, a seascape, was purchased by an American couple from Seattle.

"They also commissioned me to paint a companion picture," said William R. Cryer of 37 Linden Avenue. "They said they had been searching for 30 years for two paintings that would match their copper fire-place."

"This was just the encouragement I needed and I have been painting ever since."

NO TRAINING

Yet Mr. Cryer had had no training in art. Most of his life had been devoted to life insurance and real estate. "I was scared of painting at first," he said. "After I was taken ill and couldn't leave the house, my son gave me a set of paints. But it was some time before I dared touch them."

Since then Mr. Cryer has produced upwards of 60 water-colors, some of them based on snapshots, others painted from life.

One of his best, "Aunt Betsy's Cottage," was painted entirely from a boyhood memory. He recalled the happy hours he spent at the home of his great-aunt Betsy at Bristol, Eng., when he was no more than 13.

"Strangely I was able to remember every detail of that wonderful old place," Mr. Cryer said, "and I believe I have reproduced it faithfully."

A few months ago he painted a symmetrical picture of Christ Church Cathedral which now hangs over the fireplace.

SYMBOLIC

Mr. Cryer does most of his work in a corner of the living room, close by a high window overlooking Linden Avenue. Sometimes he paints pictures entirely from his own imagination and these have a symbolic quality.

One shows a large empty living room dominated by a TV set, a broken violin lying on a table in front of it.

This symbolizes Mr. Cryer's belief that mechanized entertainment is fast replacing live musical effort in North American homes.

"This is an unhappy trend," he said, "for it means that mass thought and mass-entertainment are killing individual effort."

ODD LOCALE FOR WEDDING

BURLINGTON, Iowa (UPI)—Mae Dell, Dallas City, Ill., married Harry Tate, Lomax, Ill., Tuesday, in the chapel of a local funeral home.

The owners said they donated use of the chapel because "we like to have people think of the chapel as a place of beauty and happiness."

Official Ousted

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A second top official of the hush-hush National Security Agency has resigned under fire.

Defence Secretary Robert McNamara demanded and got S. Wesley Reynolds' resignation after an investigation into alleged gratuities he had accepted.

28 WEEKS OF IT

'A Little More Chicken...?'

ERIE, Pa. (AP)—The Lombardi family of Erie must eat one chicken a week for the next 28 weeks.

The diet was ordered by city council after a hearing on complaints from neighbors that Mrs. Mary Lombardi was raising 40 chickens in her backyard.

Housing inspector James McLaughlin ruled that Mrs. Lombardi was permitted to raise 12 chickens. The rest must go, he said.

Albert Lombardi, appearing for his mother, told city council it would be difficult to get rid of that many chickens in one week.

"They are all old chickens and nobody wants to buy old chickens," he said. "We can't even eat that many in one week."

Then streets director Victor Giembocki found a solution. "Every chicken gone is an improvement, right?" he asked. "Therefore, if they eat one chicken a week, they could get rid of four chickens a month."

Giembocki suggested that a monthly check be made to see that four more chickens were improvement, right?" he asked. "Therefore, if they eat one chicken a week, they could get rid of four chickens a month."

FEEL YOUNG AGAIN

Beat Your Insomnia
With the Right Food

By LELORE KORDOL

Are you one of the millions of men and women who are tortured by insomnia?

To face the approach of a new, hard day—without any rest—is torture indeed!

When I beheld the deep, hollow eye sockets and the mass of strain lines on the face of Mrs. M. I was not surprised to hear her say:

"I've tried everything to get to sleep."

Wrong Eating

In most cases, sleeplessness can be traced to years of wrong, inadequate diet.

I explained to Mrs. M. she would have to include certain foods in her diet to correct the deficiency that was probably robbing her of sleep.

Sleeping is controlled by a complex centre in the very depths of the brain, known as the sleep centre which is regulated by the bloodstream.

Before the brain's sleep centre can produce drowsiness and inactivity of the conscious mind, the bloodstream must contain enough calcium and lactic acid.

Why is it that after a day spent in the outdoors you fall asleep as soon as your head touches the pillow?

True, the sunshine and fresh air induce mental relaxation.

But what is even more important, unusual physical activity releases more calcium and lactic acid into the bloodstream.

Natural Sleep

To improve her run-down condition, I recommended she drink a quart of buttermilk daily.

Don't overlook the importance of buttermilk as you grow older! It is the source of calcium and lactic acid that have a direct bearing on sleep.

"A diet designed to fit the needs of sleep," I told Mrs. M. "is the only safe way to fight insomnia."

Salt Can Upset

Too much ordinary table salt can upset the sleep chemistry to such an extent that it causes a high degree of nervous tension, which, in turn, results in insomnia.

In a highly revealing experiment conducted by Dr. Michael M. Miller, Washington, D.C., patients were treated merely by reducing the amount of salt in the diet.

Within a week the patients on this low-salt diet were able to fall asleep within 15 minutes after getting into bed.

Anti-Missile Tested

POINT MUGU, Calif. (UPI)—A Nike Zeus missile, prototype of the weapon designed to provide the U.S. with an anti-missile defence against nuclear armed rockets, today shot to its second successful long range test within five days.

One sleep robber is the constant thought of tomorrow. "I must get to sleep... I have to get up early... I must get to sleep," is enough to create a restless, wakeful night.

Fretting over the loss of sleep is worse than the loss of sleep itself. Mental rest during the hours of nightly relaxation is as important as physical inactivity.

The insomniac can invite sleep by quieting the mind and allowing the sleep centre of the brain to wash away his troubles of the day and his worries of tomorrow as completely as an ocean wave obliterates a castle in the sand.

'In Accord On Basic Elements'

By JFK, Adenauer

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer announced today "they are in accord on the basic elements which will permit a negotiated settlement of the Berlin crisis."

In a communique ending three days of "frank and cordial" talks here, the U.S. chief executive and the 85-year-old West German leader also declared they had "agreed on the measures" which should be taken toward the goal of a peaceful resolution of the Berlin dispute.

"At the same time," the communique said, "they also agreed on the necessity for maintaining and increasing the ability of the NATO alliance to cope with any military developments."

The decisions reached in the series of talks at the White House were not spelled out in the concluding announcement. The announcement said discussions on the development of Allied policy will be continued in talks involving Adenauer, Prime Minister Macmillan and President de Gaulle later this month.

FURTHER MEETINGS

The talks will be "concluded," the statement added, in foreign minister's discussions and a NATO council meeting at Paris in mid-December.

At the outset of their report on their Berlin conversations the statement made its sharp reference to the Soviet Union, saying that Russia had "created an international crisis" over Berlin.

It then added: "The president and the chancellor reaffirmed their clear determination to ensure the continuance of a free and vigorous life for the population of Berlin."

On the surface, at least, this declaration did not distinguish between West Berlin and Communist East Berlin which has been sealed off from the Western sector by a Communist-built wall.

REASSERT AIM

Kennedy and Adenauer also reasserted the aim of reunifying Germany, saying:

"The president and the chancellor reaffirmed the ultimate goal of their governments of achieving by peaceful means the reunification of Germany on the basis of self-determination. They were also in agreement that this objective could be realized without prejudice to the legitimate interest of the Soviet Union and Germany's neighbors."

THE OLD ARMY GAME GOES ON

LONDON (UPI)—The Evening Standard said in an editorial column today the Canadian Army has issued these orders telling a soldier what to do if he sees a nuclear bomb explode:

"The soldier will inform his immediate superior and tell him what has occurred. If the bomb goes off in duty-hours a certain number will be called. If it is during off-duty hours, an alternate number will be called."

"The soldier then will fill out the appropriate report form and dispatch it forthwith to headquarters."

(In Ottawa, an Army spokesman said such orders would have originated with Canada's NATO brigade in West Germany. He said he could not confirm their accuracy.)

BLAST SHATTERS HALL IN NELSON VICINITY

NELSON (CP)—A $1,600 public hall and three power poles were shattered early today in explosions near this British Columbia Kootenay city.

The incidents marked the first violence in this mountain area since some 44 members of the Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect were arrested in a recent drive and charged with bomb making and other acts of violence.

One member of the sect has already been sentenced to 10 years for making an illegal explosive device.

Two of the poles shattered today were at Genelle, a railway community, north of Trail. The other was at Slocan Park, near the wrecked hall.

Police said the hall was "non Doukhobor." Other details of the pre-dawn detonations were not immediately available.

Wen-Gren Profit Of $2.9 Million

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Province says the interests of Swedish financier Axel Wenner-Gren have achieved a profit of $2,900,000 on an investment of $2,700,000 on proposed development in British Columbia's Rocky Mountain trench area.

It says the profit breaks down to $900,000 from the provincial government and $2,000,000 from the sale of shares of the Peace River Power Development Company which Wenner-Gren interests formed to build a multi-million dollar hydro-electric development on the Peace River.

The $900,000 came to light Tuesday when Mr. Justice R. A. Woodfoot approved in supreme court a resolution passed by an extraordinary meeting of Peace Power shareholders last week.

The resolution recommended distribution on the basis of 50 cents a share of $6,472,000. The money is part of $7,530,000 the provincial government is to pay Peace Power after expropriating its plans and surveys for the hydro project.

TO FIGHT TAKEOVER?

The Sun says the remaining money is to be used to fight the terms of the government's expropriation. The government took over the plans and surveys and expropriated the hydro project.

Fly Poison Man's Poison?

ROME (AP)—The Food and Agriculture Organization today called for an international conference on a Canadian proposal to study whether man may be poisoning himself to death in his attempt to kill insects.

The conference of international experts will be held next year. It will seek an answer to the increasingly alarming problem: How much insecticide may be used on agricultural products without endangering man's own health?

Canadian delegate W. Hurlig said obviously pesticides must be used to prevent insects from destroying the plants man must have for food, but he said controls were essential to keep the resultant poisoning within health limits. He warned that the problem would be difficult.

The Canadian proposal was supported strongly by delegates from New Zealand, Burma, Israel, Pakistan, Australia, the United Kingdom, Italy, the United States, Cyprus, France, Tunisia, Thailand, India, the Philippines and The Netherlands.

The final FAO resolution, calling for the international study of the problem, said there were "increasing apprehensions" about the poisonous side-effects of pesticide residues in food.

The resolution urged action to eliminate different government regulations on the problem which might interfere with international agricultural trade.

They seem to have made East Germany into the biggest penitentiary in the world.

Hired by U.S., Germans Tell Russian Court

(Times News Services)

MOSCOW—Two handsome young Germans pleaded guilty today to spying for the United States. But both insisted they were guilty only in the strict sense of the indictment and one of them said he never took the alleged espionage seriously.

The Germans, Walter Naumann, 27, and Peter Sonntag, 22, entered their pleas at the beginning of Moscow's first public spy trial since that of American U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers. They went before two major generals and a colonel of the military division of the supreme court.

After their arrest the Russians accused the Germans, among other things, of trying to locate Soviet rocket bases. But the lengthy indictment only claimed they tried to leave the Soviet Union with 15 rolls of film that showed Soviet radar and power stations.

Defended by U-2 Pilot's Lawyer

"Why did you talk about it, despite the fact that you signed a statement pledging secrecy?" asked his defence counsel, Mikhail Ilich Grinyov, the same lawyer who defended Powers, now serving a 10-year term for his U-2 flight over the Soviet Union May 1, 1960.

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters)—Ten persons were reported killed and 40 injured today in an explosion in a crowded beer-house and restaurant in the Buenos Aires suburb of San Martin.

Airliner Crashes

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (UPI)—A chartered Rhodesian DC-3 airliner crashed shortly after take-off killing its two pilots and a stewardess. It was the same plane an anonymous telephone caller threatened to blow up several months ago.

Detroit Bombings

DETROIT (AP)—Bombs were exploded at the Detroit area homes of two officials of Teamster Union President James Hoffa's home local Tuesday night. There were no injuries.

$30,000 Store Theft

FRESNO, Calif. (AP)—Two men kidnapped the manager of the J. C. Penney store and his wife at their home Tuesday, held them hostage for several hours, then forced him today to open the safe at the store. The robbers escaped with an estimated $30,000.

"I recognize myself fully guilty in this sense," said Sonntag, who identified himself as an East German refugee who fled to the West in 1957.

Naumann also pleaded guilty "in accordance with the accusation as formulated."

Both the U.S. and West German governments have denied that the two were spies.

Sonntag said U.S. intelligence agents pledged him to secrecy but that he talked openly with friends about his connection with the Americans.

He said they made no effort to photograph anything special.

"We photographed what we stumbled across. We did not look for better crops... I realize I committed a crime against the Soviet Union. I cannot say how sorry I am. I beg for forgiveness."

Sonntag testified he was recruited by two Americans who said they represented the United States information service in West Germany.

He said they suggested he find a companion for the trip. He lined up Naumann.

"At a later meeting I met another American and told him that I would go to the Soviet Union with Naumann," Sonntag testified.

He said he and Naumann were told to locate rocket bases and rocket factories and were informed by the Americans of likely sites.

Sonntag said they were also instructed to note radar installations, railroad cars for transporting rockets and motor vehicles for carrying liquid oxygen.

Norway's Lange Rebuffs Russians

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Norwegian Foreign Minister Halvard Lange told Soviet leaders today that he "could not accept" their views about West Germany.

Lange defended Norway's participation in NATO and said Norway's experience had shown that a small country could not stand alone.

Lange was speaking without notes at the end of a long lunch in the Norwegian Embassy immediately after First Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan accused Norway of "sitting and watching" instead of doing something about a German peace treaty.

Finns Leave For Crucial Talks With K

HELSINKI (Reuters)—President Urho Kekkonen of Finland and Foreign Minister Ahti Karjalainen left here today by train for the Soviet Union and crucial talks with Premier Khrushchev.

Their departure came amid anxious speculation by the Finnish people on possible new Soviet demands on this small neutral country.

The Finnish party will arrive in Moscow Thursday and fly on some 2,000 miles east of Novosibirsk, Siberia, for talks Friday with the Soviet premier on Russia's demand for negotiations because of the "threat of an attack from West Germany and her allies" in NATO. Khrushchev currently is touring central Asian farmlands.

The Finns were worried about possible new Soviet pressure on their country. There was speculation Russia wanted to see the Communists, biggest single group in Finland's parliament, taken into the government. The government now is a minority agrarian party regime.

More optimistic people thought the crisis—began Oct. 30 when the Kremlin sounded its West German "attack threat"—might end with a simple Soviet demand for the strengthening of Finland's defence forces. At present these are not even up to the low maximum permitted under its Second World War peace treaty.

Observers speculated about whether the Russians would press for a quick start to military consultations on the basis of the 1945 Russo-Finnish mutual assistance treaty. A Russian note Oct. 30 asked for consultations under its terms on the grounds of the West German "threat."

Meanwhile, police reported that three refugees escaped from East Berlin during the night despite the strengthening of the wall dividing the city.

But one of the three who made it to safety told West Berlin police that a companion had been captured by border guards.

The flights to the West came despite the completion of new obstructions at the Brandenburg Gate, once the main

U.S. Anxious To Get Started

By FRANK RUTTER

New moves in three capitals which may lead to a breakthrough in the B.C.-Ottawa deadlock over the Columbia River power project were in sight today.

Most important was in Washington where U.S. government sources said President Kennedy may invite Prime Minister Diefenbaker to the U.S. capital next week to discuss a speedup.

In Victoria, meanwhile, Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston said that talks between Premier Bennett and Mr. Kennedy last week in Seattle "were productive."

them favorable to B.C.'s plan to sell Columbia downstream benefits to the U.S.

This followed a Times Ottawa report that the federal cabinet is "coming around" to B.C.'s view despite a split among B.C. federal ministers.

Heart of the matter is whether the downstream benefits could be sold, and if they could be sold for Premier Bennett's asking price of five mills per kilowatt hour, enough to pay for construction of Columbia dams in B.C.

Formal Speedup Talks With Ottawa

There were two firm indications today to strengthen this policy.

In Seattle, U.S. Interior Secretary Charles Udall said speedup talks on the Columbia have been held formally with Ottawa and informally with B.C.

He also said that the Bonneville Power Administration would have authority to act as a purchaser of power from Canada to serve the Pacific Northwest.

And in Victoria, B.C., Power Commission chairman Dr. H. L. Keenleyside said that recent information "has made B.C. more optimistic than ever it can market power in the U.S."

He did not say where the information came from, but it is believed a direct result of the premier's Seattle meetings last week.

Dr. Keenleyside, testifying at a public hearing on B.C. Hydro's application for a licence to build three dams on the Columbia Tuesday, said the details of the U.S. market prospect would be disclosed after the licence is awarded and when B.C. Hydro applies to the cabinet for funds to build the dams.

He said studies earlier this year indicated "a possibility" of a U.S. market.

"Further studies that have been made since that time strengthen the latter assumption very much indeed," he added.

U.S. State Department to Decide

The report of a possible Kennedy-Diefenbaker meeting came from Canadian Press correspondent Harold Morrison in Washington.

He said the U.S. state department will decide if the president should take the initiative and issue an invitation.

He said that U.S. officials will do everything they can to get construction of the project underway. However, Mr. Kennedy does not want to be accused of interfering in domestic Canadian affairs.

There are only two holdups at present: the water licence, without which work cannot be started; and Canadian ratification of a treaty with the U.S.

The meetings held by Mr. Williston were at Montreal at the end of October. He saw federal Resources Minister Walter Dinsdale and Forests Minister Hugh John Fleming and that they were favorable to the B.C. plan.

These meetings, it was learned, were very much "off the record." However, asked about his general view of the chance of a successful solution to the Columbia problems, Mr. Williston said:

"I've always been optimistic about it. The way things have been moving along lately seems to bear it out."

East Germans Shoot At Boy Seeking Food

BERLIN (Reuters)—East German police today shot at a 14-year-boy as he stooped to pick up a package of food thrown to him over the border wall by West Berlin friends.

The shots did not hit him but West Berlin police said the boy was taken away by the East German police. The incident happened opposite the French sector.

Meanwhile, police reported that three refugees escaped from East Berlin during the night despite the strengthening of the wall dividing the city.

But one of the three who made it to safety told West Berlin police that a companion had been captured by border guards.

The flights to the West came despite the completion of new obstructions at the Brandenburg Gate, once the main crossing point between East and West Berlin, and at other sections of the border.

Violence In Dominica

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, D.R. (UPI)—Police today threw noise bombs into a mob of 500 opposition youths to break up an attempted march on the government palace.

The marchers, shouting anti-government slogans such as "Down with Balaguer," were identified as members of the pro-Castro 14th of June movement.

... WITH EQUAL HELPINGS OF FOOD AND KNOWLEDGE

The Unitarian Services Committee is using emergency measures to ease hunger and combat disease but it is also taking long-range measures to help depressed people to learn to help themselves.

The greater part of money collected through the Times Children of India Fund and similar drives across the country is devoted to supplying milk, barley and medicines, but education is not neglected.

The Indian government invited the USC to establish two community centres in two of Delhi's seven slum areas.

The centres, at Idgah and Jandhewala, supply education

INSTRUCTORS

In the sewing and knitting classes women are taught to produce useful articles. They can wear them themselves or give them to others more in need. But more important, they are given the opportunity to graduate through exams and become instructors.

USC executive director, Dr. Lotta Hirschmanova, said the lack of trained instructors is one of India's "most crying needs in a long-range program of self-help."

The centres, open from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m., include a two-hour clinic staffed by doctor, midwife and medicine compounder.

Literacy classes for adults are held with pupils utilizing India's ever-present sand and dirt as blackboards.

Debating clubs, sports and films every two weeks are also part of the program.

Sunro Copper Shipment To Japan Set for March

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor
First shipment of copper concentrates to Japan from the Cowichan Copper Co. Ltd.'s leased Sunro mine at Jordan River will be made next March, according to O. G. MacDonald, Cowichan president.

The shipment is initial delivery in a contract with Mitsui and Co. which calls for the entire production of the mine for the next four years.

Cowichan has a 10-year lease on the property with option to renew for two five-year periods from Consolidated Mining and Smelting. Funds to put the property into production were provided by Mitsui.

According to Mr. MacDonald revised estimates of development costs show that Cowichan will be able to mine the ore for $7.16 a ton and sell for $10.02 a ton for a net profit of $2.86 a ton based on 28 cents pound copper. The operation is expected to earn enough by the middle of 1963 to retire all debt and provide a $1 million surplus.

Mr. MacDonald also reports that both the 750-ton daily underground mill units will be in operation by the end of the year and brought up to full capacity during the first three months of 1962.

In a letter to shareholders of Cariboo Gold Quartz Mining Co. Ltd., president Dr. W. B. Burnett states that three replacement ore bodies have been discovered at its Wells gold mine.

He says that Cariboo will mine about 1,750 ounces monthly until the mine is in shape to take a definite increase.

Speaking to a group of New York security analysts, Pacific Petroleum Ltd. president John Getgood promised the company would show a first-time profit for the year ending Feb. 28.

He added: "We expect to show an increasing profit from then on."

Revenues for the current year were estimated at about $27,000,000 compared with the previous year's $18,000,000.

Although there are no restrictions on the company to prevent further financing, Mr. Getgood said, "our present plan is to live within our means."

Fort St. John, Petroleum Ltd. has reported a drop in net income to $63,601 for the year ended May 31 compared with $78,973 for the previous year.

President M. J. Walton says the drop is largely attributable to lower revenue from the Pembina field in Alberta as a result of lost production during water-flooding operations.

Increased cash flow is predicted from higher well-head prices.

Continuing its integration of subsidiary interests, Canadian Petrofina Ltd. has announced that the assets of Western Leaseholds will be acquired by Petrofina's wholly-owned subsidiary Canadian Petrofina Ltd.

Canadian Petrofina owns 97 per cent of issued shares of Western Leaseholds and will pay independent shareholders $6.46 a share. Book value of Western was fixed at $2.79 as of June 30 this year and sold in the $3.50 range prior to the announcement.

Before the sale can be completed, shareholders will approve a merger of Western and its wholly-owned subsidiary Northern Fina Oil Ltd.

Western Leaseholds is the company created by Calgary lawyer Eric Harvey to manage the vast oil properties acquired prior to the war from British interests in lieu of legal fees. Mr. Harvey is reputed to have made a profit of more than $100 million from these lands.

Wen-Gren Profit
Of $2.9 Million

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Province says the interests of Swedish financier Axel Wenner-Gren have achieved a profit of $2,900,000 on an investment of $2,700,000 on proposed development in British Columbia's Rocky Mountain trench area.

It says the profit breaks down to $900,000 from the provincial government and $2,000,000 from the sale of shares of the Peace River Power Development Company which Wenner-Gren interests formed to build a multi-million dollar hydro-electric development on the Peace River.

The $900,000 came to light Tuesday when Mr. Justice R. A. Wootton approved in supreme court a resolution passed by an extraordinary meeting of Peace Power shareholders last week.

The resolution recommended distribution on the basis of 50 cents a share of $6,472,000. The money is part of $7,530,000 the provincial government is to pay Peace Power after expropriating its plans and surveys for the hydro project.

The Sun says the remaining money is to be used to fight the terms of the government's expropriation. The government took over the plans and surveys and expropriated the B.C. Electric Company at a special session of the legislature in August. Development of the Peace was given to the new crown company.

The Province says when Peace Power was formed Wenner-Gren interests paid $2,700,000 for 8,100,000 shares worth $1 each.

"They later sold $3,000,000 worth of shares, making $2,000,000 profit on the basis of the $1 cash outlay for every three $1 shares they picked up from the company."

"They retained $5,000,000 worth of shares in the company for which they had an actual cash outlay of approximately $1,600,000. For this $5,000,000 they will receive 50 cents a share from the government, or $2,500,000, representing a profit of approximately $900,000."

The paper says it is not clear how much of the profit will go to Bernard Gore, Wenner-Gren's representative in B.C.

"Twelve other investors in the Peace River Company, eight British companies and four Canadian, will share the remaining $5,570,000 to be paid by the government. They are expected to lose on their investment, but to what extent is not clear since the price they paid for their shares is not known."

Fly Poison Man's Poison?

ROME (AP)—The Food and Agriculture Organization today called for an international conference on a Canadian proposal to study whether man may be poisoning himself to death in his attempt to kill insects.

The conference of international experts will be held next year. It will seek an answer to the increasingly alarming problem: How much insecticide may be used on agricultural products without endangering man's own health?

Canadian delegate W. Hurlig said obviously pesticides must be used to prevent insects from destroying the plants man must have for food, but he said controls were essential to keep the resultant poisoning within health limits. He warned that the problem would be difficult.

The Canadian proposal was supported strongly by delegates from New Zealand,

PLEAD GUILTY TO SPYING

Hired by U.S., Germans Tell
Russian Court

(Times News Services)

MOSCOW—Two handsome young Germans pleaded guilty today to spying for the United States. But both insisted they were guilty only in the strict sense of the indictment and one of them said he never took the alleged espionage seriously.

The Germans, Walter Naumann, 27, and Peter Sonntag, 22, entered their pleas at the beginning of Moscow's first public spy trial since that of American U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers. They went before two major generals and a colonel of the military division of the supreme court.

After their arrest the Russians accused the Germans, among other things, of trying to locate Soviet rocket bases. But the lengthy indictment only claimed they tried to leave the Soviet Union with 15 rolls of film that showed Soviet radar and power stations.

Defended by U-2 Pilot's Lawyer

"Why did you talk about it, despite the fact that you signed a statement pledging secrecy?" asked his defence counsel, Mikhail Ilch Grinyov, the same lawyer who defended Powers, now serving a 10-year term for his U-2 flight over the Soviet Union May 1, 1960.

"I didn't take it seriously," Sonntag replied.

Asked by the court why he undertook this assignment Sonntag replied that he didn't have much money and that he was further influenced "by the lying and deceptions of the Americans."

He said they made no effort to photograph anything special.

"We photographed what we stumbled across. We did not look for better crops... I realize I committed a crime against the Soviet Union. I cannot say how sorry I am. I beg for forgiveness."

Sonntag testified he was recruited by two Americans who said they represented the United States information service in West Germany.

He said they suggested he find a companion for the trip. He lined up Naumann.

"At a later meeting I met another American and told him that I would go to the Soviet Union with Naumann," Sonntag testified.

He said he and Naumann were told to locate rocket bases and rocket factories and were informed by the Americans of likely sites.

Sonntag said they were also instructed to note radar installations, railroad cars transporting rockets and motor vehicles for carrying liquid oxygen.

He said they were trained for the spying mission in Frankfurt, West Germany, in a secret apartment and given 2,000 marks (about $500) and certain equipment for the trip by the Americans.

Finns Leave
Talks With K

HELSINKI (Reuters)—

President Urho Kekkonen of Finland and Foreign Minister Ahti Karjalainen left here today by train for the Soviet Union and crucial talks with Premier Khrushchev.

Their departure came amid anxious speculation by the Finnish people on possible new Soviet demands on this small neutral country.

The Finnish party will arrive in Moscow Thursday and fly on some 2,000 miles east of Novosibirsk, Siberia, for talks Friday with the Soviet premier on Russia's demand for negotiations because of the "threat of an attack from West Germany and her allies" in NATO. Khrushchev currently is touring central Asian farmlands.

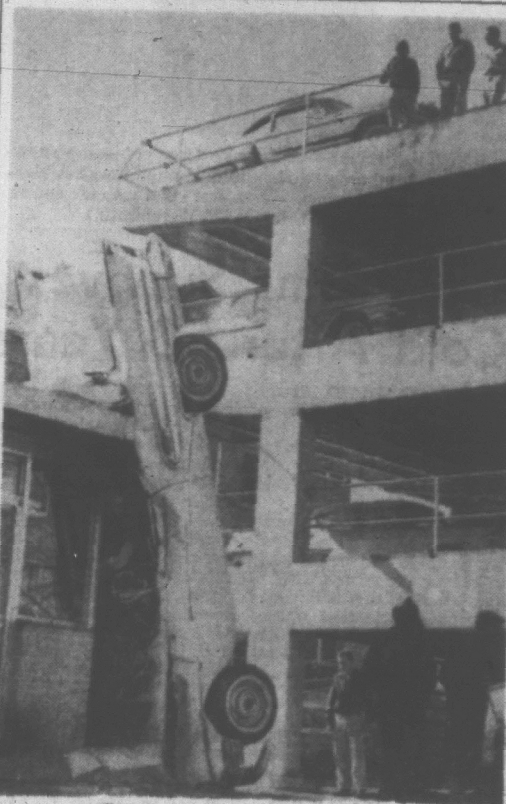

The Finns were worried about possible new Soviet demands on this small neutral country.

Lange defended Norway's participation in NATO and said Norway's experience had shown that a small country could not stand alone.

Lange was speaking without notes at the end of a long lunch in the Norwegian Embassy immediately after First Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan accused Norway of "sitting and watching" instead of doing something about a German peace treaty.

Guests at the luncheon described the atmosphere as "tense" when Lange got up to answer Mikoyan.

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Norwegian Foreign Minister Halvard Lange told Soviet leaders today that he "could not accept" their views about West Germany.

Lange defended Norway's participation in NATO and said Norway's experience had shown that a small country could not stand alone.

'System Nothing
But Liability'

Mayor Percy Scurrah today warned Victoria to avoid taking over the transit system even if large inducements are offered.

"It's nothing but a liability any way you look at it," he said. "The experts lost $500,000 a year on it so how can amateurs expect to make it pay?"

Mayor Scurrah, who retires next month, refused to confirm or deny reports the government wanted to get rid of the system so badly it was offering it free and throwing in a substantial discount on the $660,000 purchase price for the B.C. Hydro Building too.

"I'm absolutely opposed to the city taking on those buses under any circumstances," he said. "If a discount was offered, the saving would be more than swallowed up by the losses in one year's operation of the buses."

The mayor pointed out that the current annual operating loss by the transit system would automatically dump five more mills on city taxpayers' bills every year.

"It's their (the government's) baby so let them keep it."

"If they sell the system to a private operator, that's all right—provided we can get a guarantee that the service will be maintained at least through the life of the present franchise which expires in 1967."

The mayor's statement followed those by the three mayoralty candidates which indicated that the city might wind up in the transit business next year no matter who is elected.

Adamant opposition to transfer of the bus system to the city also was voiced by Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow.

"UP TO THEM"
"The government bought that system and it's up to them to operate it."

"No municipal bus service on this continent pays its own way and if we took the offer we would be saddling our ratepayers with a huge liability," he said.

Ald. Edgelow pointed out that the red-ink transit system was supported in the past by subsidies from the B.C. Electric's power operations and this same form of balance was available to the government since it took over BCE.

But if the city took the buses, it could only underwrite operating deficits by raising taxes each year.

Violence
In Dominica

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, D.R. (UPI)—Police today threw noise bombs into a mob of 500 opposition youths to break up an attempted march on the government palace.

The marchers, shouting anti-government slogans such as "Down with Balaguer," were identified as members of the pro-Castro 14th of June movement.

The talks will be "concluded," the statement added, in foreign minister's discussions.

The Unitarian Services Committee is using emergency measures to ease hunger and combat disease but it is also taking long-range measures to help depressed people to learn to help themselves.

The greater part of money collected through the Times Children of India Fund and similar drives across the country is devoted to supplying milk, barley and medicines, but education is not neglected.

The Indian government invited the USC to establish two community centres in two of Delhi's seven slum areas.

The centres, at Idgah and Jandhewalla, supply education, al and recreational facilities quite beyond the ordinary reach of India's poor.

INSTRUCTORS
In the sewing and knitting classes women are taught to produce useful articles. They can wear them themselves or give them to others more in need. But more important, they are given the opportunity to graduate through exams and become instructors.

USC executive director, Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, said the lack of trained instructors is one of India's "most crying needs in a long-range program of self-help."

The centres, open from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m., include a two-hour clinic staffed by doctor, midwife and medicine compounder.

Literacy classes for adults are held with pupils utilizing India's ever-present sand and dirt as blackboards.

Debating clubs, sports and films every two weeks are also part of the program.

JFK May Invite Dief To Discuss Columbia

U.S. Anxious To Get Started

By FRANK RUTTER

New moves in three capitals which may lead to a breakthrough in the B.C.-Ottawa deadlock over the Columbia River power project were in sight today.

Most important was in Washington where U.S. government sources said President Kennedy may invite Prime Minister Diefenbaker to the U.S. capital next week to discuss a speedup.

In Victoria, meanwhile, Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston said that talks between Premier Bennett and Mr. Kennedy last week in Seattle "were productive."

It was also learned here that Mr. Williston recently held talks with two federal cabinet ministers and found them favorable to B.C.'s plan to sell Columbia downstream benefits to the U.S.

This followed a Times Ottawa report that the federal cabinet is "coming around" to B.C.'s view despite a split among B.C. federal ministers.

Heart of the matter is whether the downstream benefits could be sold, and if they could be sold for Premier Bennett's asking price of five mills per kilowatt hour, enough to pay for construction of Columbia dams in B.C.

CHARTER MEETING FOLDS UP

A meeting to discuss the desirability of a city charter for Victoria has been cancelled because of lack of interest, a spokesman for Victoria Chamber of Commerce said today.

The meeting, organized by the Chamber's public affairs group, was to have been held at the Empress Hotel Thursday at 8 p.m.

Two experts from Vancouver had been engaged to address the meeting—Russell K. Baker, corporation counsel for Vancouver city, and Prof. Eric Todd, associate professor in the faculty of law at the University of British Columbia.

"All Chamber members were invited to come along and hear what these experts had to say about the value of having a city charter," the spokesman said.

"The response was so disappointing we decided it was impractical for us to bring them to Victoria."

In the general invitation to members, Ira Hill, chairman of the public affairs group, pointed out that Vancouver is the only city in B.C. to have its own charter.

Mr. Hill said the public affairs group had accepted the study of a city charter as one of its program objectives for this year.

Now it looks as if the study will be dropped.

HOLLY TIME HAPPY TIME THIS TIME

A $90,000 crop of Christmas holly is expected this year by southern Vancouver Island growers.

A yield of over 80,000 pounds is expected which officials of the growers' association say is of high quality.

"It looks as though it will be one of our best years," said Geoff. Vantreigh, sales manager of the 61-member association, who said competition from U.S. growers has been overcome.

Shipping will start to eastern Canada in about two weeks. Orders already are "pouring in."

INQUEST TONIGHT

Rockfall Kills Powderman

An inquest will be held in Duncan tonight into the death of 61-year-old John Backlund, of Duncan, who was killed by a rockfall at Port Renfrew Monday.

The mishap occurred while a rock face was being blasted to provide rock-fill for a harbor breakwater.

According to Sooke RCMP, Mr. Backlund, a powderman, was working below the face preparing explosive charges when the dislodged rock fell on him.

A doctor from Port Renfrew pronounced him dead at the scene of the mishap.

Mr. Backlund had been living at Harris Creek, 16 miles north of Port Renfrew. He is survived by the widow and family in Duncan.

The inquest is set for 7 p.m. in Hirst's Funeral Chapel.

Underground Power Lines Elworthy Aim

A campaign to put all overhead power lines in Oak Bay underground will be waged by candidate Gordon Elworthy, who seeks the reevehip in municipal elections Dec. 7.

Coun. Elworthy said today new installation of overhead power lines in the Uplands is wrong.

"Everyone knows that wiring in the Uplands was to be all underground."

Engineer Geoffrey White said the lines go through where they would not normally be seen from the streets and through undeveloped parts of the area.

"If elected," the candidate said, "I intend to work for a long range plan for the removal of all poles not only in the Uplands but throughout Oak Bay."

"Now that the B.C. Electric is government-owned, there should be no obstacle to this."

Cadets at Helm When Oriole Crosses Strait

A sea training cruise to Vancouver is planned for 30 officer cadets from the Canadian Services College, Royal Roads, this weekend.

The cadets will make the crossing in the training yacht HMCS Oriole and in two naval harborcraft.

En route, they will each have an opportunity to take the helm and will receive practical instruction in chart reading and navigation.

The group will board the vessels at Cowichan Bay Saturday morning, arrive at Vancouver at 4 p.m., returning to Esquimalt at 5 p.m. Sunday.

Formal Speedup Talks With Ottawa

There were two firm indications today to strengthen this policy.

In Seattle, U.S. Interior Secretary Charles Udall said speedup talks on the Columbia have been held formally with Ottawa and informally with B.C.

He also said that the Bonneville Power Administration would have authority to act as a purchaser of power from Canada to serve the Pacific Northwest.

And in Victoria, B.C., Power Commission chairman Dr. H. L. Keenleyside said that recent information has made B.C. more optimistic than ever it can market power in the U.S.

He did not say where the information came from, but it is believed a direct result of the premier's Seattle meetings last week.

Dr. Keenleyside, testifying at a public hearing on B.C. Hydro's application for a licence to build three dams on the Columbia Tuesday, said the details of the U.S. market prospect would be disclosed after the licence is awarded and when B.C. Hydro applies to the cabinet for funds to build the dams.

He said studies earlier this year indicated "a possibility" of a U.S. market.

"Further studies that have been made since that time strengthen the latter assumption very much indeed," he added.

U.S. State Department to Decide

The report of a possible Kennedy-Diefenbaker meeting came from Canadian Press correspondent Harold Morrison in Washington.

He said the U.S. state department will decide if the president should take the initiative and issue an invitation.

He said that U.S. officials will do everything they can to get construction of the project underway. However, Mr. Kennedy does not want to be accused of interfering in domestic Canadian affairs.

There are only two holdups at present: the water licence, without which work cannot be started; and Canadian ratification of a treaty with the U.S., defining the sharing of benefits from the scheme.

The meetings held by Mr. Williston were at Montreal at the end of October. He saw federal Resources Minister Walter Dinsdale and Forests Minister Hugh John Fleming and that they were favorable to the B.C. plan.

These meetings, it was learned, were very much "off the record."

However, asked about his general view of the chance of a successful solution to the Columbia problems, Mr. Williston said:

"I've always been optimistic about it. The way things have been moving along lately seems to bear it out."

Canadians Buffeted By 'Winds of Change'

Two visiting officials of the Liberal party today said the "winds of change" are blowing hard across Canada in view of the lack of leadership from Ottawa.

W. A. Gilmour, president of the B.C. Liberal Association and James Coutts, national president of the Young Liberal Federation of Canada, said it is apparent the Canadian people are seriously considering a change.

Mr. Coutts of Calgary, who is completing a cross-country tour of Canada, said that is the impression he received in both eastern and western provinces.

As far as B.C. is concerned, Mr. Gilmour said resentment against the provincial government is mounting, and a change here is possible too.

"We have noticed in the business community of Vancouver a disillusionment with the irresponsible government of Victoria," he said.

He was referring to the government's takeover of the B.C. Electric Co. and plans to purchase Black Ball Ferry's Canadian assets.

Mr. Gilmour described them as "million dollar deals done over the premier's desk."

On a federal level, the 40-year-old lawyer said Liberal Leader Lester Pearson's "positive attitude to the problems of international trade and his sympathy with the present British government's efforts to meet its problems is meeting with the approval of the Canadian people."

Mr. Pearson's leadership, he said, is drawing more and more people to the Liberal party.

"Everywhere I go," he added, "I meet with encouragement and enthusiasm. There are smiles and laughter when a year ago there were only grim faces at political meetings."

Mr. Coutts said the growth of the Liberal movement is apparent in the young Liberal organization.

"Membership has more than doubled in some provinces," he said.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. The standard gauge of American railroads is 4'8 1/2". What or where was the origin of the gauge and what is the standard in England, France, Germany, and Russia? S.F.

A. The 4'8 1/2" gauge is known as the "Stephenson gauge." The Killingworth Colliery track in England upon which George Stephenson ran his first locomotive had a gauge of 4'8", and the inventor built his engine to fit this track. The Stockton and Darlington Railway, upon which he persuaded the directors to run steam locomotives, had the track gauge widened to 4'8 1/2" while the width of the locomotives remained shorter by half an inch to allow a certain amount of "play." During the earliest periods of railways, track widths differed widely due to the fact that the lines were unconnected. In England the gauge varied from 2 feet to 7 feet, and in the United States from 3 feet to 6 feet. However, standardization of gauge came in the 1860s when the necessities of freight haulage caused various track systems to be linked up for greater distances. At this time the U.S. Congress adopted the Stephenson gauge, and it has since gradually been adopted all over the North American continent, and in Europe due to British influence. French and German lines are of this width. Russian railroads, however, have a gauge of 5 feet.

Pat Bay Highway Relocation Goes Ahead

Highway diversion around Patricia Bay Airport, being built by McPhail's Construction Co. of Richmond on contract of $219,832, starts at intersection of Pat Bay Highway and Lochside Drive, will cross Beacon Avenue immediately east of SANSCHA Hall, then rejoin main road at Ardwell Road. Above view of 2.87-mile section was taken from Weiler Avenue.

Work has not yet started on runway extension at airport, sole reason for highway move, but tenders have been called for new radio equipment to assist aircraft landing in bad weather. Project is part of transport department's overall expansion plan at airport, and will cost about $15,000. (Times Photo by Irving Strickland.)

MONTE ROBERTS

Seated this week on the patio, the Sateve Post on my knees, I was reading text and pictures, with a feeling of vague unease.

What was bothering me, I wondered, as I leafed through the glossy pages of this magazine?

Why, I asked myself, was a little giggling nagger tapping me on the back of the noggin as I read about Seattle's progress toward its Century 21 World Fair?

How could I be anything but happy, I asked myself, to learn how our friendly neighbor down Puget Sound way had flung the North American World Fair of this decade away from (boo!) New York?

After all, I told myself, I am reading this on November 21, 1961, and the Seattle doings don't start until April 21.

Why should I be disturbed because I'll see Seattle in getting international publicity in a magazine with a million or two readers on both sides of several borders?

So I kept the magazine on my knees, and tried to ignore my unease, as I read about the crowd of inspired amateurs who, after their Century 21 whoop-de-do is over, will leave a $50,000,000 community centre as a permanent legacy to the citizens of their city.

After all, I told myself, Seattle doesn't even have an honest-to-Betsy, look-it-up-in-the-history-books, anniversary to celebrate.

So how come Seattle is getting all this publicity, and everybody is getting excited, when whatever it is Seattle is going to celebrate doesn't even start until April 21, 1962?

It was at this point the Sateve Post slipped off my knees, to be replaced by a no-longer vague feeling of unease.

What do you know, I said to myself. There are rumors, I said, that a city about which I should know a thing or two has a legitimate reason for throwing a party in 1962.

This city, I reminded myself, is none other than the Fairest of Them All—namely, Victoria, the capital of the Province of British Columbia, situated in Canada's left field bleachers.

Oh, ho, I said to myself, THIS is why the feeling of unease.

I am comparing, I told myself, the forward-looking, far-ranging efforts of the Seattle amateur celebration promoters with the (objectives withheld to protect the innocent) efforts of the Victoria celebration promoters.

Comparisons are odious, admittedly, but odious seems to be the definitive word here.

Or is it necessary to say something smells?

Fireman Shot In Buttock By Companion

Shot through the left buttock in a weekend hunting accident near Cobble Hill, Victoria fireman Stanley Gow, 3096 Balfour, today was reported in good condition at King's Daughters' Hospital in Duncan.

According to RCMP, the shot was fired by Gow's hunting companion, Lloyd Newton, of 991 Tulip, Victoria. It penetrated Gow's pocketbook, and the soft-nosed bullet made a large, tearing wound as it left the flesh.

The two were hunting Sunday in thick underbrush just one-half mile from the Trans-Canada Highway. Gow left the car and Newton continued up the road, both planning to circle toward each other.

I'VE BEEN HIT

Police said Newton told them as he approached the rendezvous he saw a deer and fired his .303 rifle.

He then heard his companion shout, "I've been hit."

Newton took his injured friend to the hospital.

He was treated for shock and loss of blood, and although his left leg was reported numb, he could move his toes. It is expected recovery will be complete.

Shawnigan RCMP continued an investigation today, but said there was little likelihood a charge would be laid against Newton.

Wheels Stolen From Cars Outside Mill

Two employees of B.C. Forest Products found it a trifle hard to drive home Tuesday.

Thieves had removed the wheels from their cars. Jack Connor, 3066 Leigh Road, and Frank Kitto, co-B.C. Forest Products, returned to the company parking lot in the Gorge Road-Manchester area at 4 p.m. to find the right front wheel gone from Mr. Connor's car and the two front ones stolen from Mr. Kitto's.

RANSACKED

During the night three residents of the 1500 block Montgomery and a visitor to the area had their cars ransacked but nothing was taken.

Police said none of the cars were locked.

They belonged to Mrs. Patricia Garner, 1544 Montgomery; Keith Olson, 1524 Montgomery; Dr. John Krayenow, 1540 Montgomery, and A. Houston, Strathcona Hotel.

Mrs. Garner's car was at first reported stolen, but was later found on Lincoln Road.

New 'Soft Shoe' Blanks To Tame Noisy Time Gun

The sound of the time gun at Work Point will be toned down, effective with the noon firing Thursday, it was announced today.

A statement by Lt.-Col. R. F. Bruce, commanding officer of Work Point barracks, said a modified type of blank round will be available as a result of investigation and recommendations submitted by army officials.

"An endeavor has been made to lessen the explosion, but at the same time keep it sufficiently loud to fulfill its mission," he said.

The gun is fired at noon and 9 p.m. Some residents of adjoining areas had complained the gun was too loud.

There was speculation Russia wanted to see the Communists, biggest single group in Finland's parliament, taken into the government. The government now is a minority agrarian party regime.

More optimistic people thought the crisis—began Oct. 30 when the Kremlin sounded its West German "attack threat" alarm—might end with a simple Soviet demand for the strengthening of Finland's defence forces. At present these are not even up to the low maximum permitted under its Second World War peace treaty.

Observers speculated about whether the Russians would press for a quick start to military consultations on the basis of the 1948 Russo-Finnish mutual assistance treaty. A Russian note Oct. 30 asked for consultations under its terms on the grounds of the West German "threat."

THE OLD ARMY GAME GOES ON

LONDON (UPI)—The Evening Standard said in an editorial column today the Canadian Army has issued these orders telling a soldier what to do if he sees a nuclear bomb explode:

"The soldier will inform his immediate superior and tell him what has occurred."

"If the bomb goes off in duty hours a certain number will be called. If it is during off-duty hours an alternate number will be called."

"The soldier then will fill out the appropriate report form and dispatch it forthwith to headquarters."

(In Ottawa, an Army spokesman said such orders would have originated with Canada's NATO brigade in West Germany. He said he could not confirm their accuracy.)

BLAST SHATTERS HALL IN NELSON VICINITY

NELSON (CP) — A $1,600 public hall and three power poles were shattered early today in explosions near this British Columbia Kootenay city.

The incidents marked the first violence in this mountain area since some 44 members of the Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect were arrested in a recent drive and charged with bomb making and other acts of violence.

One member of the sect has already been sentenced to 10 years for making an illegal explosive device.

Two of the poles shattered today were at Genelle, a railway community, north of Trail. The other was at Slokan Park, near the wrecked hall.

Police said the hall was "non Doukhobor."

Other details of the pre-dawn detonations were not immediately available.
